Thank You!!! Thank You!!! Thank You!!!

To everyone who helped to make the 1997 Twenty-fifth anniversary of the American Birkebeiner a great event. Thank you!!!

Special thanks to the office staff of the American Birkebeiner Ski Foundation and to the entire staff of Race Chiefs. They are outstanding!!!

Thanks also to the sponsors, to the members of the Board of Directors, to the skiers, to the spectators, and to the nearly 2,000 volunteers.

The 1997 Birkie was a great event, but we can, and will, improve several aspects of the Dyno American Birkebeiner ski race. For example, while the transportation and traffic control staff did an excellent job transporting upwards of 12,000 skiers, volunteers, and spectators 20 miles one way in less than three hours over roads that were never designed for that purpose, we can, with some minor adjustments, improve the system.

Next year we will start bussing earlier. We will eliminate the congestion that occurred just north of Hayward on Highway 63 around 7:00 a.m. by making better use of extra parking lots to relieve traffic congestion. Plus, we will provide extra buses during the height of the rush so that the waiting time will be dramatically reduced.

We will continue our efforts to provide high quality skiing conditions, including better classical tracks, but we are going to need additional funding for trail maintenance and grooming.

We believe that participation in cross country skiing will continue to grow and we intend to improve our service to meet the needs of that growth.

Thank you once again. This has been the experience of a lifetime.

The Good, Bad and Ugly of Birkie XXV

A lot of unusual things happen out there on race day - hopefully most of it is good, but inevitably there are a few bad things and even a few "ugly" incidents. We thought we would recount some of the anecdotal experiences from this year's race...

Let's get a couple of the not so good things out of the way first. One of the biggest skier complaints was bussing and delays getting to the start. This was definitely a problem and perhaps the biggest detraction from an otherwise stellar year. Not wanting to sound like a simple excuse, but a little analysis will explain why this happened and what can and will be done to correct it. First, as anyone who got an early start will attest, the buses worked quite well. But at around 7:00 things started to go awry. The trigger to the whole problem was an unanticipated need for additional buses at the Middle School pick-up. Normally a little over two hundred skiers stay at the Middle School, but this year there were almost 400. This pulled buses from the main route and precipitated some of the delays at Trettin's field. Additionally, there was a breakdown in the system of diverting people from Hayward to the new parking area at Como field in Cable. Too many people were being sent to Hayward, not enough to Cable. Finally, there was the naive assumption that over 10,000 people including spectators could be moved over 20 miles in a mere two to two and a half hours.

Dave Dwyer, skier-turned-volunteer

The solutions? 1. More buses - there were 45 buses in use on race day. Next year that number will be increased to as many as 60 and we will monitor the registration at the Middle School closer to determine what those needs will be. 2. Start earlier - Bus pick-ups will begin at 5:00 A.M. This year, those who got an early bus, got to the start the fastest. 3. Better acquaint bus drivers and traffic control personnel with routes, parking and traffic plans - understanding that most drivers do not know the area very well and there is no way to "rehearse" such an event.

A couple other "bad" points - the snow between the lake and Main Street -- compared to everything from wet cement to mashed potatoes to quick sand. In any event, it was tough, especially after 51.5 kilometers. Possible solutions include using a synthetic base over the street with less snow on top. This could also be used at all of the road crossings and will be experimented with before next year.

The changing tents worked reasonably well, but next year there will definitely be a floor of some kind.

Finally, the classical tracks. Television coverage shows that there were tracks there to begin with, but many who observed the early waves stated that they were simply just skied over. We can understand why those skiing classical might have been disappointed. There was one track set on each side of the trail. Original plans had called for more, but the Telemark start area required more time to groom than anticipated and there was little time to do much more that set a single track on each side of the trail. The dry granular snow also presented a major challenge to setting a consistently solid track. One of the best sections of track was on Hanson's Hill descending to Duffy's Field. This sunny, south-facing slope had a much more powdery consistency and held a track far better than any place on the course. By most accounts the classical start seemed to work pretty well.

On the very positive side, the Birkie Trail was groomed to its maximum width and the brush had been thoroughly cut back. The grooming throughout the season was outstanding. From the beginning of December through race day the trail received regular and prompt grooming, even at times when many people might not have expected it to be groomed.

Unlike last year's slugfest which actually included two skiers involved in fisticuffs on the trail, attitudes were much more upbeat, as witnessed by incidents such as the following: a skier drops his water bottle and the skier right behind him makes a valiant effort to pick it up, jeopardizing his own balance, ski poles, etc.

There's also the story of a "skier turned volunteer" in the middle of the race. Dave Dwyer of Chicago was skiing his 10th Birkie, but for Dave this year it was not to be. Because of Dave's generosity, however, two other skiers were able to finish. Dave broke a binding just before the Timber Trail Food Station (#2). He pulled in and offered to help out. Donning a silver space blanket and looking not unlike a large Hershey kiss, Dave dispensed water and energy drink to passing skiers. One skier came in with a similarly broken binding. Dave removed his good one and installed it on the disabled ski and the skier went on his way. Shortly later another skier came in, this one with a broken ski. Dave offered up his good ski (fortunately the bindings were compatible) and another skier was able to continue.

With the fast conditions this year there were numerous accidents due to people running into each other. Part of this is simply due to some people not being able to handle the speed on the hills, but some of it was blatant disrespect for fellow skiers. Many faster skiers without previous Birkie seed times were placed in one of the middle or back waves. There were frequent reports of people with Wave 3 through 10 bibs blasting their way through slower skiers often causing them to crash. One skier who started in Wave 4 was able to qualify for Wave 1, but admitted that he probably made about 50 enemies during the course of the race.

One of the potentially more serious injuries and one which spawned numerous rumors was Sara Jo Olson. Sara Jo took a serious face plant around the 12 kilometer hill. She was conscious and well aware of the potential seriousness of her situation. Fearing a potential neck injury Sara Jo was placed in a cervical collar and strapped to a backboard for transport. Sandy Lyon of Springbrook, Wis., the first skier on the scene, stopped to help out and commented how the ski patrollers and emergency medical personnel "did it right" and treated Sara's injury with the utmost care and with all the proper precautions. The good news is that she "only" suffered from a moderate case of whiplash and was treated and released from the hospital in Hayward. Sandy felt so bad for Sara that she got her address and will be sending Sara her Birkie medal.

One of the most fun parts of the race for one group of people are the crash and burn hills located near 12 and 22 kilometers. While it might be terrifying for most skiers, these bystanders get a big kick out of skiers biting the powder while judging their falls using Olympic style rating systems. Unfortunately in the past couple of years part of this fun has turned ugly with these semi-intoxicated spectators jeering skiers and making indecent remarks to female racers. There have even been reports of full beer cans being hurled at skiers and plastic sleds thrown on the course in an effort to promote crashes. The good news is that Sawyer County Sheriff's deputies were dispatched to the scene on snowmobile. Verbal warnings were given and snowmobile registration numbers recorded. The Sheriff's department will be ready for these ne'er do wells next year.

Finally, when you've had a good ski season and think you are in pretty good shape, you might consider Gunnar Lilliehroth who was profiled in the Pre-Race issue of the Birch Scroll. At age 84 not only did he ski and complete this year's Birkie, but the week before that he skied the 50 km Keskinada in Canada. His ski season has also included a 69 km race in Austria, 70 km race over very tough conditions in Italy, and 25 km and 55 km races on consecutive days in Germany. After the Birkie he then went on to ski the 90 km Swedish Vasalopet. I'm tired just writing about it!

Volumes could be written recounting the "war stories" of the day. Everyone has their own special memory of the 25th Dyno American Birkebeiner. As usual we hope the good outweighs the bad by a significant margin. And rest assured, what went wrong is already being fixed for next year. See you then!

Watch your mail for the BIRKIE UPDATE coming in June!

Just What is A Founder?

The term "founder" is a reference commonly used to describe a group of individuals who have a long history with the American Birkebeiner. All of this elite group are quick to admit that the only real, true, original "Founder" is the creator of the Birkie, Tony Wise. It was Tony Wise, however, who created the designation of "founder" for the group of skiers who skied the very first Birkie in 1973 and continued to ski the race in every succeeding year.

It was following the third Birkie in 1975 that Tony proclaimed that all who skied all of the races would be known as "the founders." This term has subsequently been adopted by many other local events to signify racers or participants who participated in the first event and continued with an unbroken series of events. At the time Tony made this designation there were 12 or 13 skiers who had skied each of the first three Birkies. In the following years, however, there was some attrition and Tony realized that the founder concept would eventually be lost unless some finite number of completions were considered as a qualifier. With Birkie 10 it was decided that those who complete all of the first 10 consecutive races will remain as "founders," even if they don't continue to maintain their streak. This is how the following 11 individuals became known as "the founders" in perpetuity: Karl Andresen, Fred Constalie, John Gannet, John Holmquist, John Kotar, Dave Landgraf, Jacque Lindskoog, Wayne Lindskoog, Nils Meland, Rick Scott, and Ernie St. Germaine.

There has long been the misperception that all of the 11 founders have skied every Birkie to date. This has, in fact, been the common definition and reference to who the founders were. This is not entirely accurate, however, and a fact which has made some of the founders uncomfortable as not all have skied every Birkie. None the less, there is a core group who has skied all 25 Birkies - over 1,200 kilometers of Birkie races, since its inception in 1973. This elite group is comprised of founders Karl Andresen, Dave Landgraf, Wayne Lindskoog, John Kotar, Rick Scott, and Ernie St. Germaine. Following close behind is Jacque Lindskoog who has skied all 25 years but one year was forced to ski the Kortelopet as she had been hit by a car earlier in the year while bicycling and was still recovering.

Many skiers have now skied 23 or 24 Birkies. This is a significant and remarkable accomplishment and some of these individuals might have been founders had circumstances permitted. Several of those who skied the first race still participate in the Birkie or Kortelopet, but for one reason or another did not meet the criteria set by Tony Wise at the time of the tenth American Birkebeiner. Several years ago the Birchleggings Club was created to recognize non-founders who complete 20 or more Birkies.

The bottom line remains, however, that despite his passing and his departure from the helm of the good ship Birkie, Tony's influence lives on. And in respect for his vision and wishes, the group he ordained as such will forever be known as "the founders."

Farewell to Elmer

Elmer Hasset

–by Ron Bergin

Elmer Hasset truly personified the spirit of the American Birkebeiner. He not only skied the Birkie, he lived it. When you walked into his house one of the first things you saw was his shrine to the Birkie - a wall containing every one of his Birkie bibs and medals. Scattered throughout his small cabin on the Namekagon River was also an assortment of photos and other memorabilia from his past Birkies.

Elmer was not just a Birkie skier, he was the consummate Birkie volunteer also, devoting numerous hours helping assemble and stuff racer bib bags year after year. His volunteerism didn't end with the Birkie either, for at practically the drop of a hat you could count on Elmer to help out with just about any event or project in the Cable area. The Birkie, Fat Tire Festival, Cable Area Chamber of Commerce, UCC Church, CAMBA, and the Cable Natural History Museum, to name but a few, were all beneficiaries of Elmer's generosity. He no doubt volunteered at numerous other times about which I am not even aware. But you could always find Elmer helping out behind the scenes somewhere.

Elmer's great passion, however, was the Birkie. I recall him beaming with pride when he was selected to represent Wisconsin in the Opening Ceremonies Parade of Nations and States in 1995. He wore his Birkie medal and strutted his stuff with Birkie skiers from around the world.

He wasn't a top racer, but he was devoted to the sport of cross country skiing and dedicated to his goal and dream of skiing 20 Birkies. I had the opportunity to interview Elmer a couple of years ago. He related how in addition to the Birkie he had skied 10 Mora Vasalopets, including 1981 with a case of double pneumonia. To say that he was obsessive about cross country skiing might be an overstatement, but I don't think there are too many people around in his age class who would ski the Pre-Birkie in Hayward on Saturday and drive to Mora, Minnesota the next day for the Vasalopet. At the time and age 68, he had completed 18 Birkies. That year he notched number 19. He expressed how he hoped to ski his twentieth, after which he would "retire to the food stations." But he really wanted to ski at least one Birkie after turning 70.

Last year Elmer was struck with cancer and his dream looked to be slipping away from him. But Elmer fought back, registered, and set out to ski his twentieth American Birkebeiner. But it was not to be. Anyone who skied the 1996 Birkie does not need to be reminded of how difficult the conditions were, and it took its toll on Elmer, ultimately forcing him to drop out at the Kortelopet finish.

Birkebeiner executive director Marilyn Schutz offered to give Elmer credit for his 20th race, but he would have nothing of it. Despite his increasingly frail condition, Elmer again registered for his 20th Birkie. As it became apparent that skiing his twentieth and the twenty-fifth anniversary American Birkebeiner was not going to be possible, Pastor Lynn Larson of the UCC Church and Cable resident John Uffenbeck offered to pull Elmer in a sled so that he could log his twentieth Birkie. Sadly this never came to pass, but I would love to have seen it.

Elmer left us in early January, but his quest for his twentieth Birkie did not end with his passing. Some time before his death, Elmer asked Paster Lynn Larson if he could do a favor for him. "Would he be willing to carry his ashes in a backpack during the race?" Pastor Larson, who would be skiing his 13th Birkie, was honored to comply. He originally thought that the ashes would only weigh about five pounds, but it turned out they were well over 10 pounds. Elmer's bib was attached to the backpack – the first bib in the eighth wave, number 8000, which was also a Birchleggings Club bib. It was tough going for Lynn, but the fast conditions aided his quest and he, like many other skiers, finished well ahead of his anticipated time, almost 30 minutes faster than he thought he would.

The Birkie affects people in many different ways, but Elmer's devotion to the event was truly special. And though it was unconventional, it was an emotional conclusion to his quest and satisfying for everyone who knew him, to know that Elmer had "completed" his twentieth Birkie.

Elmer's memory and love for the Birkie will live on, for a plaque in his honor is slated to be installed on the Birkie Trail about one kilometer south of OO. Elmer has also requested that his ashes be spread on the Birkie Trail. The Birkie has been such a significant part of Elmer's life, it is truly fitting that the Birkie Trail is where he chose as his final rest stop.

Celebrating 25 years of Birkebeiner fun.

MUGGED ON THE BIRKIE TRAIL?

–by Joan Rath

Well - O.K., not exactly mugged, but definitely grabbed from behind.

I was skiing my first Birkie, the XXV anniversary, with conditions probably as fast as they've ever been (Ours prayers do get answered sometime!). Knowing ahead of time that the conditions were fast, I was worried about the steep downhills and possible ice. Because I had done two Kortelopets in 1994 and 1995 I was somewhat familiar with the terrain. I knew the first big hill was a doozie, but I gained some confidence after successfully, though somewhat slowly, snowplowing about three-fourths of the way down.

I thought I'd try the same technique on the second big downhill, and that's when it happened. I slowly began my descent with every ounce of physical and mental energy focused on the task at hand. Before I knew what was happening, someone behind me, with very different views on descending the hill, was wrapping his arms around my waist confidently and quickly. As he was solidifying his hold on me, he said, "We're going." By the tone of his voice it was easy to interpret this as "Relax and ski with me, or we will instantaneously become a human pretzel." We signed onto a mental agreement out of fear and hopes of survival. I instinctively decided to go with the flow which meant I needed to let my skis ease into a wide parallel stance since his skis were between mine. For a most brilliant second or two, we were 300 and some odd pounds of fear, skiing harmoniously on four skis with four poles pointing who knows where. I suppose this could be called a skiing octopus. Anyway, I recall a premature, fleeting feeling of security when one of those four misguided poles became the culprit of our demise.

Near the bottom of the hill as we reached the peak of our speed and were negotiating a gradual turn to the left, I went down with my not-so-appreciated "friend" on top of me. Luckily for him, he started apologizing even before we saw the stars. It was pretty hard to be mad at a guy like that after six or seven apologies. I shooed him on, saying that I was okay, and just hoping that was the case. I started skiing slowly assessing the bodily damages. I soon discovered that I was, as of yet, able-bodied but assured of some good bruises. As I continued on my way, I became aware of a full mental recovery when I smiled ever so slightly and thought, "That must have looked really funny!"

I went on to finish the race, enjoying the downhills more and more as I skied each one alone. Other than blinking back tears of joy on the lake and thinking that the soft mushy snow from the lake to Main Street was a pretty dirty trick, the rest of my race was happily uneventful.

If you recognize yourself in this story, please call me so that I can have my husband beat you up. Just kidding! Rest assured, I realize it's all in the name of good fun and a little inexperience on the part of some of us.

Thank you, volunteers, for a rich and memorable experience of a lifetime.

Have You Seen These Men?

–by Joel Hoekstra

Editor's note: Of course we have all seen this image, originally adopted by Tony Wise as the logo of the American Birkebeiner. But there is much more to the tale of these "two men and a baby" than meets the eye. This story originally appeared in the October, 1996 issue of "Viking" magazine and has been used by permission.

Nearly three decades ago, Diane Carlson, then a 21-year-old bride, bought a small chalk drawing that she found in an antique shop in southeastern Minnesota. The commercial artist was living at the time with her husband in Owatonna, Minnesota, a small town about an hour's drive south of Minneapolis. Carlson, who is of Scandinavian descent, had recently finished a sketch of a Viking ship and was searching for a frame for it.

During a visit to her favorite shop, she discovered the perfect frame surrounding an old black-and-white drawing. She bought the piece for $3 and took it home, where she wiped away the cobwebs and grime as she prepared to throw out the drawing.

She didn't realize that what she saw that day in 1967 would eventually change her life.

A Captivating Image

The 17-by-23-inch drawing depicted two Nordic warriors skiing down a mountain slope with battle axes and spears in hand. Oddly enough, a baby was strapped to the breast of one of the men. The infant, in particular, intrigued Carlson. The babe seemed out of place in this sweeping, harrowing scene. Were the men escaping and protecting the child? Or had they kidnapped it? "There was enough intrigue that I left it intact," Carlson says. In fact, she hung it in her house.

The next year, in 1968, Carlson and her husband moved to Colorado Springs, Colorado, where they opened a photography studio and bridal business. Diane Carlson became busier with her career and raising a son of her own, but the child in the picture remained an enigma she couldn't forget. She wondered who had drawn the piece and whether it was valuable, but she never researched the answers to her questions.

Uncovering a Legend

Then, five years later in 1973, Carlson ran across a reference in the Skier's Digest to a pair of skiers that had carried an infant prince, the son of King Sverri of Sweden, across a snow-covered mountain range to save him from rebel factions that were trying to claim the throne in the wake of the king's recent death. The baby eventually became king, the passage said, and the heroic warriors' journey was commemorated annually in Norway with the "Birch Leg" race, also known as the Birkebeinerrennet. Surprised, Carlson looked for clues linking her drawing to the legend. Sure enough, the feet and calves of the men in Carlson's drawing were wrapped in birch bark-the story said the king's loyalists had been in such dire need that they had nothing but the bark of birch trees to cover their feet. Furthermore, Carlson knew of the American Birkebeiner every year in Cable, Wisconsin, and she knew it was modeled on the Norwegian Birkebeiner.

Certain then that she was on to something, Carlson fired off letters to the Oslo National Gallery of Art and the American Swedish Institute, asking if there were any Norwegian artists whose styles matched that of her drawing. The story soon unraveled. The drawing was the work of Knud Larsen Bergslien, a well-known 19th-century Norwegian painter. Born in Voss in 1827, the artist excelled at landscape painting, but he also painted portraits and still life drawings-and he eventually produced a large full-color oil painting called "The Flight of the Infant King." A Norwegian shipping magnate who owned the painting told Carlson in the mid-1980s that the painting matched Carlson's drawing exactly. She theorized that her drawing was the original study for the full-color painting.

The tale behind the scene is chronicled in a few historical records. On Christmas Day in 1205 A.D., a small party of travelers arrived in the village of Lillehammer. Among the group's members was a woman named Inga from a small community in southeastern Norway called Varteig. She carried an 18-month-old child, the son of King Haakon Sverresson. Inga and the king had met while the king was passing through the town of Borg, where Inga was staying with her uncle. The king took a liking to the maiden and, according to one saga, "Inga was in the king's chamber and slept in the same bed as he."

The king, who continued on his way to Oslo, died, allegedly of poisoning, before his child was born. Civil war had flared up in Norway as the rival forces, the Birkebeiners and the Baglers, struggled to claim the throne.

Haakon's father, Sverre Sigurdsson, the chieftain of the Birkebeiners, was remembered as a strong king, and his son's reign was an era of peace. But with King Haakon's death in 1204, the Baglers, who still controlled the more affluent eastern parts of the country, rose up, thirsting for power. Rumors of the child's existence, which threatened the rebel's chances for power, soon reached the rebels. As winter set in, Bagler forces closed in on both sides of the Oslo fjord, Inga's home district. The mother and her child, Haakon Haakonson (spellings vary), then fled with the protection of an escort party. The Birkebeiners intended to take the young price to Nidaros (Trondheim), where the king elect of the Birkebeiners, King Inge, had established his court.

Moving north and traveling largely under the cover of night, the group reached Lillehammer on December 26. They set off again in early January 1206. But the main route up the Gudbrandsdalen Valley seemed risky, so the party decided to split. According to legend, the two best skiers, Torstein Skevla and Skjervald Skrukka, were charged with carrying the child over the mountains to the neighboring valley of Osterdalen, which was deemed a safer, though still dangerous, route. Written accounts say "They suffered much from wind, frost, and snow." But the child, and Inga, eventually reached the Birkebeiner court safely.

National Tour

The details of the story thrilled Carlson as she pieced them together. But the saga seemed little more than obscure 13th-century history. She gradually learned more about the legend and the painting over the years, but it wasn't until 1992 that it became clear to her that the image and story were still very important to modern Norwegians. By that time, Carlson had divorced, earned a bachelor's degree, and moved to northern Arizona.

One night, she was watching the closing ceremonies of the 1992 Winter Olympics in France on television. Suddenly, she saw the scene in Bergslien's drawing reenacted: Two warriors on skis carried a prince. The commentator recounted the story that Carlson had pieced together and said the image would be a theme of the 1994 winter games in Lillehammer.

"I had in my possession this priceless piece of history," Carlson recalls. "What should I do?"

After a flurry of letters and phone calls to Olympic organizers, members of the Atlanta Committee for the Olympic Games asked her if they could view the drawing, considering it for a traveling history exhibit celebrating the centennial of the Olympic Games. She obliged, and the drawing was included in an exhibit that toured the United States before the Lillehammer festival, Carlson says. The work also was included, she thought, in an exhibit scheduled to tour internationally and culminate with a show at the 1996 games in Atlanta.

Image Captures Carlson's Imagination

In the meantime, Carlson, now 50 and a resident of Chula Vista, California, had immersed herself in writing a book and an opera based on the drawing's history. "The story is just so rich with passion and power," she says.

She traveled to Lillehammer where she discovered the image is pervasive. The Birkebeiner story has permeated the fiber of everyone's life there," Carlson says.

But it was the story of Inga, not the prince, that led Carlson to Lillehammer. The artist had been consumed by the mother's tale. Although few clues about Inga existed, Carlson described the young mother as "a distinctive personality - brave, undaunted, and beautiful."

Furthermore, Carlson has become the "American ambassador" for the Inga-lami - literally the "pathway to Inga" - a new Norwegian women's ski race set up in conjunction with the Birkebeiner.

Story Takes a Dramatic Turn

But on June 17, 1996 Carlson's story took its own dramatic turn. A few days earlier, Atlanta committee representative Jennifer Parker told Carlson that she would hand-deliver Carlson's tickets to the 1996 games-a token of gratitude for the use of her drawing. Carlson thought such personalized service was a bit odd, but not wholly extraordinary.

Parker arrived and seemed distracted and nervous, Carlson recalls. Carlson talked about her plans to return to Norway next year and auction off the drawing in Lillehammer. The "Norwegian national treasure," as Carlson calls it, belonged in its homeland, she said. The work was worth a great deal. She hoped the auction and festivities would coincide with a partial performance of her opera. She told Parker how she planned to donate a portion of the proceeds of the auctioned piece to the two local ski races.

But upon hearing Carlson's plans, Parker seemed distressed, Carlson says. Then, Parker told Carlson the news. She said, "I don't know how to tell you this, but your drawing is missing," Carlson remembers. "I was in absolute shock."

The Atlanta committee, Parker said, deeply regretted the loss. Parker herself had discovered the piece's absence while taking inventory of the collection at an Atlanta warehouse in May, according to Carlson. But the piece was insured at $250,000, Parker added, so surely Carlson would have ample funds to finish her book and stage her opera.

"That's fine," Carlson recalls saying, "but I really want my painting back. It's worth much, much more."

Parker referred questions about the drawing to Lyn May, spokeswoman for the Atlanta committee. May said the drawing had been missing since 1994 and never traveled internationally. At first, organizers assumed that it had simply been misplaced in the exhibit warehouse, she says. But in late August, the matter was turned over to an Olympics' insurance company because the drawing had not been found.

At first, Carlson believed the drawing probably had been stolen. But after talking with exhibit staff members in Atlanta, she concluded that it must have been lost inadvertently.

Since the discovery of the loss, Carlson has concentrated on getting the word out about the loss. "It's in some building somewhere, and if people know what it is and what it looks like, perhaps it will show up," she says.

Meanwhile, she'll continue to draw on the strength of the story, weaving together the threads that make up her book and opera. The novel, titled The Falcon's Cloak, includes elements of Carlson's unraveling of the drawing's story. It's nearly finished. The opera, of the same title, is half done. Carlson has yet to contract with either a publisher or a producer.

Also, Carlson has begun to organize an American Inga-lami race and has recently visited this year's Inga-lami in Lillehammer.

Carlson, a self-described nonathlete, reflected on the Bergslien drawing's impact on her life. "I have often thought about why I am so obsessed with this. It's really an odd thing, isn't it?" she says with a laugh.

"That one choice of going to that little farmhouse in 1967 completely changed the course of my life. A purchase of $3 ... That really boggles my mind."

If you have any information about the whereabouts of the Bergslien drawing, please contact Diane Carlson by fax at (619) 656-6422.

The fast-paced, inspirational fiction about an American cross-country ski team and their struggle to secure Olympic honor has become the #1 Best-seller in Northwest Michigan! (source: Traverse City Record-Eagle, February 16, 1997). Here is why:

"The skiing scenes are so realistic you can almost touch the snow, inhale the frosty air, and glimpse the markers as you go by ... an entertaining tale, definitely worth taking along to the lodge." --Ray Walsh, Lansing (MI) State Journal.

"Author Kevin Hayes is a lawyer and cross-country skier who puts his knowledge of both worlds into his writing. Everyone who enjoys nordic sport will get kicks from this book" --Claude Liman, contributing writer for Cross-Country Skier, Ski Trax & others.

"The race sequences will delight ... the story kept me turning pages [with] the behind the scenes politics and intrigue [and] a very pleasant romance subplot ... you'll find yourself rooting for the main characters." --Jim Neff, Editor, Great Lakes Skier.

State-Wide Cross Country Organization Started in Wisconsin

–by Charlie Dee

Nobody but nobody thinks about the future of skiing when they're in the middle of a race. Judging from the ecstatic faces crossing the finish line in Hayward, skiers in the 25th Anniversary Birkie were focused like I was on the fast trail and ideal conditions. What a great race that was!

But in the long run, if we don't think about — and even take action on — some issues affecting cross country skiing in Wisconsin, we may not have the trails to train on or the nordic centers to visit that we now enjoy in the Badger State.

That's why skiers from around the state have decided to protect and expand our sport by forming the WISCONSIN CROSS-COUNTRY SKI ASSOCIATION (WCCSA).

Take for example the cost of grooming trails. As Mike McFadzen, of the Northern Kettle Moraine Nordic Ski club and one of the founders of the WCCSA, asks, "Ever wonder why snowmobile clubs get a tax rebate for the gas they use grooming trails, and we don't? Or why snowmobile clubs don't pay a state sales tax when they buy grooming machines, but ski clubs have to pay the tax? The answer is simple," McFadzen states, "Snowmobilers have a state-wide organization that wields political clout, and we don't."

Skiers in Southeastern Wisconsin and many coming up from Illinois have another reason to want a state-wide organization that can advocate for the sport. The McMiller Trail in the Southern Kettle Moraine was leased by the Department of Natural Resources to a gun club without cross-country skiers even being consulted.

Now, unless the gun club is present, skiers can't get into the parking lot or use the warming hut because both are locked. The lack of access to the warming hut is a particular insult since it was built with generous contributions from skiers!

There are many other issues that a state-wide organization could address, such as advocating for trail designations that protect and expand ski trails, building youth programs, keeping local ski clubs and individuals informed on important issues and coordinating actions such as letter-writing campaigns.

"Name any issue affecting skiers, and you can find another good reason why we need the WCCSA," says Phil Johnsrud of the Iola Winter Sports Club and a member of the WCCSA Steering Committee. "While clubs are doing good jobs in their local areas, the only way we can really deal with some of these things is to have a state-wide group," adds Johnsrud.

Another of these issues is liability insurance. Currently, one of the biggest problems and expenses clubs have when they want to put on a ski race, have a "Youth Ski Day" or offer free lessons to introduce people to the sport, is liability insurance. A state-wide organization could negotiate a liability package for all its member groups, saving headaches as well as money.

So Birkie skiers, whether you live in Wisconsin or simply visit our beautiful trails, we need your help in building this organization. If you want information, wish to join or make a contribution, please write WISCONSIN CROSS-COUNTRY SKI ASSOCIATION, 5549 Kathryn Drive, Plymouth, WI 53073, send an email to 102043.2070@CompuServe.COM or call 414-892-6271.

Most of all, we need your energy. Join us on Saturday, May 10, 1997 at the Iola Winter Sports Club at 1:00 PM for the founding meeting to adopt a structure, elect officers and plot the first year's activities for the WCCSA.

Roller skiing with excessive resistance (slower than snow) can lead to poor technique and is simply NOT FUN! *SKI SKETT roller skis are designed to simulate the feel ,glide and speed of actual cross-country racing skis in average to optimal groomed snow conditions. No other roller ski manufacturer offers a smoother more enjoyable ride. SKI SKETT puts the emphasis on allowing the user to practice proper technique. TRAIL HAPPENINGS ◆◆◆

Local Trail Groups Combine Efforts on Birkie Trail Maintenance

This past fall, three local trail organizations joined together in a first-time collaboration to organize a joint trail maintenance project on the American Birkebeiner Trail. The Chequamegon Area Mountain Bike Association (CAMBA), Friends of the Birkie, and the Chequamegon Fat Tire Festival pooled their resources and labor to undertake the first phase of what is anticipated to be an ongoing effort to improve and maintain the Birkie Trail.

In addition to hosting the American Birkebeiner ski race, some sections of the 26 miles of the Birkie Trail which spans portions of Bayfield and Sawyer County Forests have also been incorporated into the CAMBA off-road bicycle trail system and used for the Chequamegon Fat Tire Festival. Both organizations only use a few miles of the Birkie Trail. In addition, the trail is also used for hiking, running, snowshoeing, and non-motorized hunter access.

The joint trail project was instigated and coordinated by CAMBA who enlisted the assistance of the Fat Tire Festival and Friends of the Birkie. Friends of the Birkie is a trail advocacy group dedicated to monitoring the well being of the American Birkebeiner Trail, particularly with regard to logging activity in the trail zone.

Primary objectives of the project included drainage of a number of perpetually wet areas, repair and improvement of several erosion prone areas, and brushing along the edge of the trail. Working with Birkie Trail supervisor, Kurt Proctor, over 30 volunteers assembled to tackle the assignment. Proctor provided backhoe services to trench and install drainage tile in seven wet spots along the trail. Birkebeiner Ski Foundation board member, Fred Zietlow, assisted with his Bobcat. Several small sites and one larger erosion site caused by logging equipment on the trail were filled, graded, and seeded. Volunteers, including Birkie board members Jane Bidwell, Dennis Kruse, and Don Maher, also brushed both sides of approximately three kilometers of the trail.

The organizations were pleased with the outcome of the project and indicated that they felt it to be only the beginning of a mutually beneficial trail maintenance arrangement with the respective County offices and the American Birkebeiner Ski Foundation.

Each organization contributed $500 toward materials and equipment for the project. An estimated 162 volunteer labor hours were also contributed. The total of purchased and donated services, materials, and labor was $2811.00. Future projects will address other drainage and erosion sites as necessary along the Birkie Trail.

New Trail Head to Access Birkie Trail

By the beginning of next ski season, there will be a new trail head from which skiers will be able to gain access to the American Birkebeiner Ski Trail. While there are several places in the Cable area where the Birkie Trail comes close to or crosses town roads, there is no formal site designated as a trail head at the northern end of the trail with the basic amenities normally associated with such a facility.

The trail head concept was initiated by a group of skiers from the Cable area and presented to the Cable Area Chamber of Commerce which enthusiastically endorsed by the idea. Several potential sites were considered, field research conducted, and each site evaluated on the basis of its location, ease of access, amount of development required, and aesthetics. The chosen site is in the Bayfield County Forest on Randysek Road about two miles south of Cable. An old logging road and small parking area near the site had occasionally been used as an informal trail head. This road, however, is not presently a viable option due to its steep grade. It has also not been groomed making skiing to the Birkie Trail from this point difficult, if not impossible.

A new trail with a gentler, easier grade will be constructed to connect to this existing road. The new access trail will tie into the Birkie Trail approximately one kilometer south of the power line.

A proposal was presented to the Bayfield County Forestry Committee in early January outlining the reasons why a trail head is needed in the Cable area. The Forestry Committee agreed in principle and stated that this was a good use of the county forest. They requested trail head organizers work with County Forest Administrator Paul Stone and report to him about development plans and how the project was going to be carried out.

There presently is no public skiing facility close to the village of Cable. It is believed that by creating such a facility more skiers will be attracted to the north end of the Birkie Trail and the Cable area. A well developed warming area and access site could become a focal point for skiing in the Cable area and the north end of the Birkie Trail, much the way the Kortelopet building has at County Highway OO near Seeley at the midpoint of the trail.

Having a first class site as proposed will encourage more skiers to use this part of the trail, which is considered by many to include some of the more scenic and challenging sections of the trail. The development of the proposed trail head will eventually include the access trail, parking for up to 50 cars, outhouses, and a warming building. The American Birkebeiner Ski Foundation has agreed to groom the access trail throughout the season.

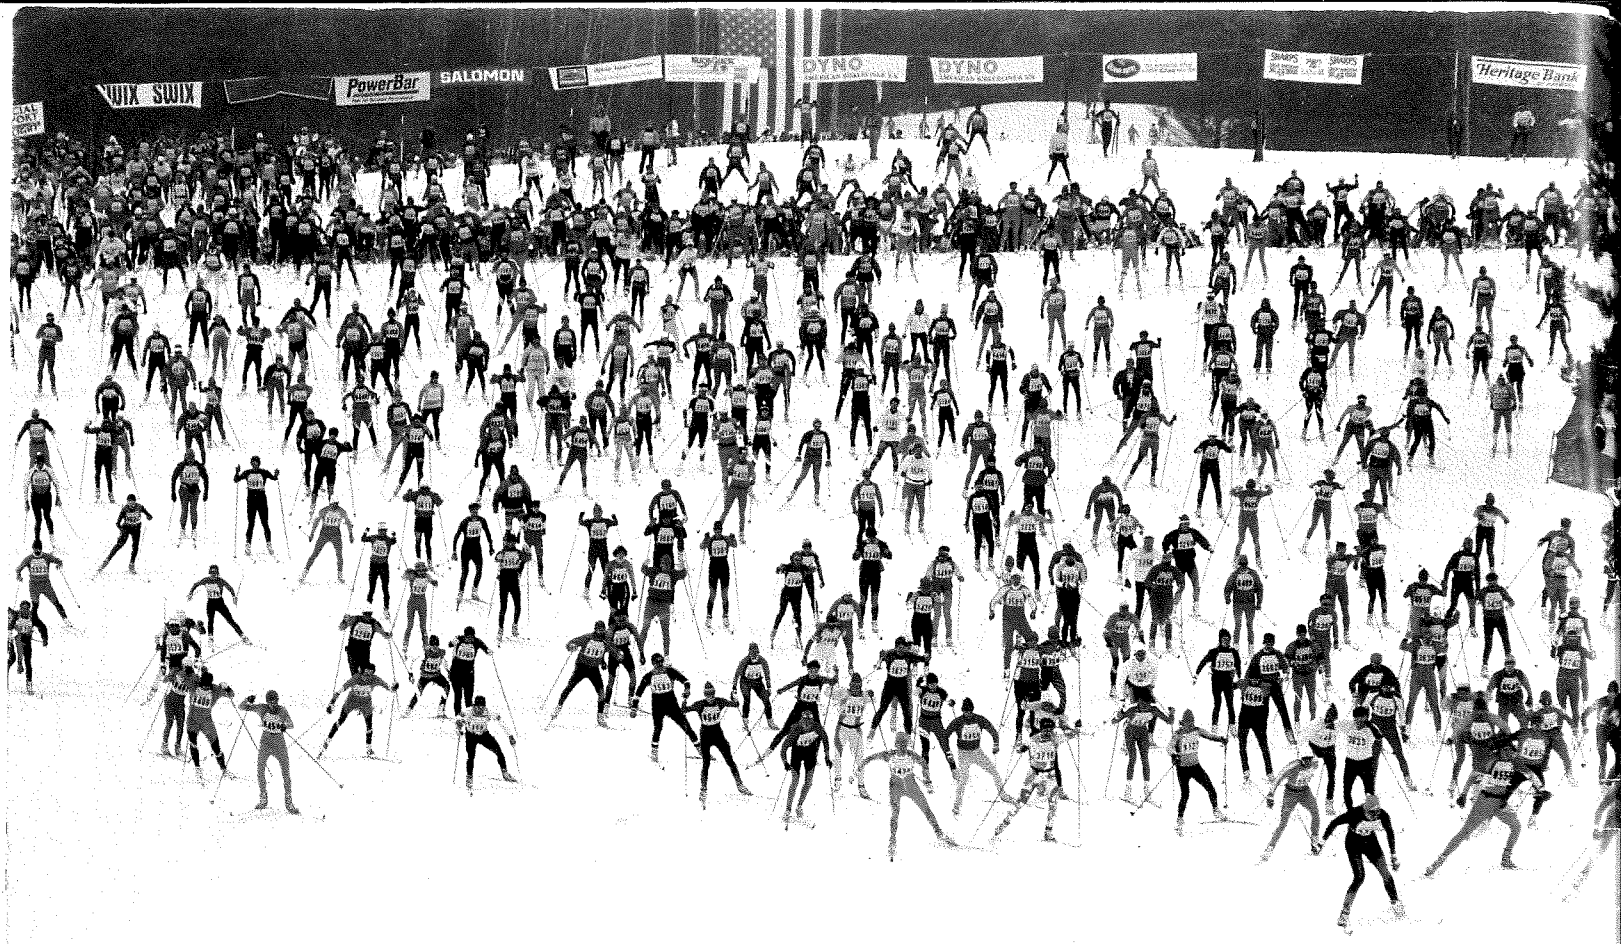
DYNO

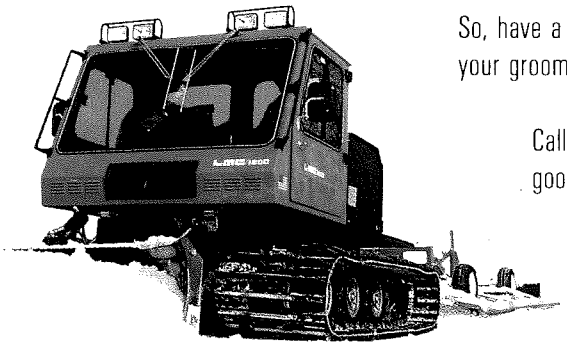


AT RUSH HOUR, YOU DON'T WANT TO WORRY ABOUT YOUR GROOMING.

When you have 13 kilometers to go, when you have 7,881 competitors on all sides pushing you, when your breath is freezing into ice on your face, the last thing you want to worry about is your grooming.

Not your coiffure, your trail.

The surface needs to be uniform, flat, eminently skiable. That's why the route of the 1997 Dyno American Birkebeiner, as in years past, was groomed by an LMC. Whether it's Main Street in Hayward, the 52 kilometers of race trail, or a trail in a state park, people the world over depend on LMC to leave the surface as smooth as a baby's behind. As one of the developers of snow grooming machines, we've been doing just that for over 34 years.



So, have a good race, and hey, forget about your grooming. We've got it covered.

Call (715) 341-2330 for more tips on good grooming.
