HOW IT ALL STARTED

BIRKIE FOUNDERS REFLECT ON THE INAUGURAL RACE

~ Bill Bradley

Right: Skiers line up at the start of the 1973 American Birkebeiner at Lumberjack Bowl, home of the Lumberjack World Championships.
Below: Skiers take off from the start line with the Wannigan and Pancake House in the background.

Every skier has a story about their first Birkie. Blew up on the powerlines. Bonked before the high point. Died on the lake and took a mystery feed from revelers. But only 35 skiers have a story about the first Birkie.

These days, 10,000 skiers flock to the Northwoods the last weekend of February every year to ski the famed American Birkebeiner Trail from Cable to Hayward. But in 1973, the idea–hatched by Birkie founder and Hayward-native Tony Wise–was a novelty. Wise modeled the race after the original Norwegian Birkebeiner, which has traversed from Rena to Lillehammer every March since 1932.

> "I made a vow right then that I would never be talked into any other kind of ridiculous escapade by Ernie St. Germaine."

The sport looked a little different back then. Skate skiing was non-existent in 1973. Ditto wax service and carbon fiber skis. The skiers who made their way from Hayward to Telemark Lodge in Cable–the opposite direction of the modern race–waxed their wooden skis on the deck of the Wannigan Pancake House in the shadows of a humble starting line. Ernie St. Germaine signed up on a whim. His friend Lyman Williamson, who, at 72, was too old to ski the race, simply told him "be here next Saturday at eight am and my wife will fill you up with pancakes and we'll go to the race."

There was one problem: St. Germaine didn't know how to ski. So Williamson strapped him into a pair of skis and taught him in his driveway. St. Germaine called up his good friend and fellow Northwoods native Dave Landgraf and told him to rent some skis, they were going to ski the Birkie ... whatever that was. They filled up on pancakes and made their way to the start line.

Most skiers wore knickers and wool sweaters. St. Germaine showed up in blue jeans. "The absolute worst thing you can possibly wear nordic skiing is cotton," St. Germaine says, laughing. "You never want to wear blue jeans because they soak up the sweat and water and get wet. I learned my lesson the hard way. I didn't know what to wear. I never, ever wore blue jeans skiing again."

After St. Germaine made it to the finish at Telemark, his denim icy from 50 kilometers of skiing, he was, well, just happy to be done. "I swore up and down: Never, ever again will I do anything so stupid," he says. Landgraf felt the same way, telling the writer Walter Rhein for his 2010 book Beyond Birkie Fever, "It was the most miserable athletic event that I'd ever been involved in," and Neither man would keep those resolutions. St. Germaine, the lone remaining Birkie founder who has skied every race, is a bonafide celebrity in the Northwoods and, before he was tragically struck and killed by a vehicle on a bike ride in 2011, Landgraf had skied every Birkie, many of them out of the elite wave.

It wasn't all men at the first Birkie, though. Jackie Lindskoog was the only female finisher. Lindskoog went on to ski TK Birkies. In 2014, she received the Tony Wise Spirit of the Birkie Award, which honors those who have made outstanding contributions to the growth and development of the American Birkebeiner and the sport of cross country skiing. For years, rumors that Lindskoog had snuck her way into the race through trickery turned into urban legend. She shot all those down when she accepted the Spirit of the Birkie Award, telling the crowd, "I didn't disguise myself as a man, sign up as a man, or ski with a dog." From the beginning, anyone who wanted to ski the Birkie could ski the Birkie.

The story of the first Birkie isn't just about the skiers. Volunteers were as essential in 1973 as they are today. Linda Steavenson dropped St. Germaine and Landgraf off at the start line, then made her way to help at a feed station a few miles north of Hayward. "I knew Dave and Ernie, and they said they were going to do it, so I said why not," Steavenson said in 2015. "We had blueberry soup back then. I know because I had it all over my jacket."

> "I didn't disguise myself as a man, sign up as a man, or ski with a dog."

As for what the Birkie means to the race's longest tenured skier? "It saved my life," St. Germaine says, matter of fact. In 1991, he went in for his annual physical the week after the Birkie "as fit as you can ever imagine being" yet, after his bloodwork, his blood sugar was so high his doctor could not believe he wasn't in the hospital. "Skiing and the year-round preparation for skiing the Birkebeiner saved me," he says.

Dave Landgraf, left, greets Ernie St. Germaine at the finish of the American Birkebeiner (year unknown). While Landgraf often finished hours ahead of St. Germaine, he never missed watching his friend cross the finish line, according to St. Germaine.

The 75-year-old St. Germaine will be out there for this year's 50th edition, classic skiing the open track. People often ask him how he does it and he says, "I can visualize the entire course, every hill and every corner. I see myself skiing it and finishing it–and then I just go do it."

But the jury is still out on whether this year will be his last Birkie. "How do you know?" he says. After he and Landgraf had skied 35 in a row, a reporter asked them how many more they were going to ski. Landgraf looked at St. Germaine and said, "Let's do 50 and see how we feel." Ever since Landgraf passed, St. Germaine has carried his ashes with him on race day. "So he's going to ski his 50th this year, too," St. Germaine says. "I'm certainly going to keep skiing. Whether I ski the race or not, I don't know. Like Dave said: after 50, let's see how we feel."

WISE BEYOND HIS YEARS

THE MAN WHO BUILT THE BIRKIE

~ Bill Bradley

Tony Wise had a vision. In 1947, after he returned from World War II, the Hayward, Wisconsin, native wandered around the Northwoods until he found a hill he felt was perfect for skiing. The land was owned by a local dentist and, as legend has it, Wise wrote what he was willing to pay with a knife on one side of a tree and the dentist wrote his selling price on the other. They met in the middle. Wise bought the nearly 800 acres that would become Telemark for $750.

Years later, after Telemark had grown to host 70,000 downhill skiers annually, Wise opened the Telemark Lodge, designed by Frank Lloyd Wright associate Herb Fritz. The 200-room lodge cost $6.1 million in 1972 and, as was often joked about at the time, was the only resort where the lodge was bigger than the hill. It was more than just skiing, though: Telemark hosted jazz legends like Duke Ellington and Bill Evans.

While Telemark was the spot for downhill skiing in the midwest, Wise realized that the woods surrounding Telemark, with its rolling descents and punchy climbs, were ideally suited for nordic skiing. In 1973, he founded the American Birkebeiner, where the 35 inaugural racers–many clad in knickers and wool sweaters–skied 50 kilometers, finishing at the iconic lodge. At the time, the frozen and tired skiers had little clue that this was the beginning of what Wise thought the Northwoods could be: a magnet for skiers around the world.

The legend of the Birkie was born, and Wise lured world-class skiers to the Northwoods for a weekend every February in an effort to grow the region's trails and the iconic race. Two years after the Birkie began, Wise invited then U.S. Ski Team coach Marty Hall to Telemark to help design what would become the American Birkebeiner Trail. In 1978, Telemark hosted the first ever FIS-sanctioned World Cup race.

Tom Kelly, who handled PR for Wise and Telemark from the mid 1970s through the mid 1980s, saw the ingenuity and drive that animated his boss' work and life. "He was the most notable visionary I've ever known or worked for," Kelly, who embarked on a long career with U.S. Ski and Snowboard after he left Wise's side, says. "And as a visionary, he took his vision to extremes."

About those extremes: Wise constantly iterated on his ideas. In the 70s, as the Birkie and Telemark's popularity grew, Wise wanted the lodge to be one of the best in the world. What Wise’s mountain lacked in height, he made up for in amenities. But he had to go somewhere for inspiration first.

Wise and Kelly traveled to Austria in the winter of 1979 for a ski race and, on the way back to the midwest, found themselves stranded in the Rome airport amidst a sea of refugees fleeing the Iranian revolution. They couldn’t get a flight out for a few days, so Wise dragged Kelly into a taxi and told, per Kelly’s retelling, the driver to take them to “the very best hotel in Rome.” The driver took them to the Grand Hotel on the Via Veneto, where Wise asked the front desk for “the very best suite in the hotel.”

“This was my first trip to Europe. I was just some midwestern kid who had never been out of the country,” Kelly says, laughing. “We got up to the suite and it was over 3,000 square feet!” Wise spent the rest of the trip documenting every single detail of the Grand Hotel in his yellow legal pad: “Towel racks, the pianos, the details of every piece of decor,” Kelly recounts. “He made all these notes so he could bring this back to Telemark and the Birkie.”

Armed with a notepad full of ideas, Wise set about transforming Telemark into the destination for skiers in the upper midwest and helped the Birkie grow into North America’s premier ski race. To this day, Northwoods locals and skiers still wax poetic about the world and community Wise built in the late 70s and into the early 80s as the popularity of nordic skiing boomed after Bill Koch won a silver medal at the 1976 Olympic Games in Innsbruck, Austria.

“Tony was the king of hospitality,” Gary Crandall, a longtime Northwoods resident who knew Wise well, says. “It was his operational style to make sure that everyone in any of his events got a wonderful, world-class experience. The bottom line was not necessarily the measure of success. Popularity, media exposure, competition, world wide recognition, having a great time, and making memories were what was important.”

Unfortunately, memories do not pay the bills. As Telemark and Birkie attracted more skiers due to Wise’s singular vision, the business faltered. Even the most successful events barely turned a profit. While many people remember this time fondly as the heyday of Telemark, behind the scenes Wise’s empire was crumbling. Wise lost Telemark and the Birkie to bankruptcy in 1984.

Members of the Cable and Hayward community helped pick up the pieces after Wise entered bankruptcy and formed the American Birkebeiner Ski Foundation (ABSF) to take over the race and carry on what he had built. “It was a tumultuous time in the community,” Kelly says. “He didn’t get to go out in good fashion at the time, so it is nice to see that his legacy lives on in so many aspects of the sport and Wisconsin today.”

Indeed, Wise’s legacy lives on as the race he created celebrates its 50th anniversary this February. In 2016, the ABSF opened the Tony Wise Museum of the American Birkebeiner in Hayward to commemorate both the history of the race and Wise’s contributions to the region. The Wise name is all over the Northwoods and American ski culture, from the Tony Wise Trail at the North End Trails in Cable to the United States Ski Hall of Fame.

“Tony turned America on to nordic skiing,” Ernie St. Germaine, a fellow Northwoods native who has skied every Birkie, says. “And, look, some folks are going to attribute that to other people. But I am going to tell you right now: Tony Wise is who brought nordic skiing to America.”

THE WOMEN WHO SHAPED THE BIRKIE

Joan Cervenka moved to Hayward in 1985 and skied her first Birkie–dressed in a homemade clown suit–in 1986. She's volunteered every year since. Shellie Milford worked for the Birkie in countless roles for nearly three decades. While only one woman, Jackie Lindskoog, skied the inaugural Birkie in 1973, the race wouldn't have become the marquee event that it is today without the women of the Northwoods who volunteered their time, their effort, their sweat, and their love.

"When I moved to Hayward I had a lot of choices to make in life," Cervenka says. "And one of them was a healthy lifestyle. The Birkie and the women in the community facilitated that."

One of those women was Milford, who Cervenka met after she moved to Hayward. Milford was instrumental in making the Birkie the Birkie before she retired in 2015. When the tents at the start line blew over, heavy snow blanketed the parking lots at midnight before race day, or the heat went out... everyone knew to call Milford.

One year, Milford actually saved the Birkie. The night before the race, registration used to stay open until midnight–so she'd sleep on the floor at Telemark. It was the late 80s or early 90s (Milford couldn't quite pinpoint the year) and a security guard woke her at 3 in the morning. The man told her that a contractor had arrived to empty dumpsters and they were going to move the Birkie's motorhome, which housed all the computers for timing and registration. If they unplugged the motorhome, chaos would have ensued and all the information would have been lost.

"I literally jumped out of my sleeping bag and ran in my flannel PJs out the door and stood there in my bare feet in the snow in front of the motorhome and told the dumpster guys 'you have to move me before you move this motorhome," she says, laughing. The disaster was averted, thanks to Milford's moxie.

Over the last 50 years, the Birkie has been graced by bold and brave women, from Lindskoog setting the example to Cheryl Hiltbran, the first woman to ski 40 Birkies. You could even argue that the Birkie helped shape Minnesota native and Olympic champion Jessie Diggins, who won the Kortelopet twice as a high schooler in 2008 and 2009 and will return to Hayward in 2024 to ski the American Birkebeiner for the first time. In 2018, her father told the Sawyer County Record the Birkie "is where she learned to love" skiing. And anyone who has ever been in the Birkie's orbit, from spectators supporting loved ones to longtime volunteers, will tell you that the race has a way of romancing people. There's a reason families come back every year–it's a beloved and inclusive event, run by people who care about the race and the community it serves.

"No matter who the race director was, the staff was basically all women," Milford says. "The women were the organizing strength behind the race." Cervenka, who has skied 21 Birkies, noted that while, yes, more women skied the race as the years went on–over 4,000 women competed across all events in 2023–it was the uptick in female volunteers who made the race run smoothly she noticed. "I saw an increase in lots of women volunteering," she says. "Taking over aid stations, start areas, helping out with the Barnebirkie."

The Birkie has a way of changing lives, whether you're skiing it or volunteering in the frigid cold handing out steaming cups of sports drink. "You have the core value of the Birkie and then you have this spiderweb of women supporting each other spinning off of that," Cervenka explains. "It starts with the seed of the Birkie and grows into this massive community of people

HISTORY IN THE MAKING

DIGGINS REFLECTS ON RETURN TO BIRKIE WEEK

"Growing up in Minnesota every winter my family would look forward to Birkie weekend as a winter highlight where we could challenge ourselves and enjoy an exciting day of racing. I've always wanted to race the American Birkebeiner, and this year presents a unique window of opportunity that I'm very excited about embracing in between World Cup events! I'm very excited to be part of the 50th anniversary of such an iconic and exciting event, and to join the awesome ski community in this race." said Diggins.

Women have achieved Birchlegger or Uberlegger status by skiing 20 American Birkebeiners or more as of 2023...and counting!

Weyer, a long-time physical education teacher, has influenced generations of outdoor enthusiasts in and out of the classroom with her passion for cross country skiing, road biking, and, more recently, pickleball.

WORLDLOPPET: A BRIEF HISTORY

~ Garrott Kuzzy

> “The foremost purpose of the League is to honor dedicated long-distance skiers who, during their lifetime, have completed the courses of all the official Worldloppet races.”

Below: Skiers prepare for the Macialonga’s vintage race in Italy.

“More than 50,000 of the world’s most avid cross country skiers will have a new challenge beginning this year.” So began the 1978 press release announcing the formation of the Worldloppet League by nine of the world’s most renowned ski marathons. “The foremost purpose of the League is to honor dedicated long-distance skiers who, during their lifetime, have completed the courses of all the official Worldloppet races.”

Inspired by other race partnerships, such as the Euroloppet, a series of five events in Europe, American Birkebeiner founder Tony Wise dreamed of an international league of ski marathons where both elite and citizen skiers could compete, bringing skiers and cultures together at events around the world. To make this dream a reality, Wise mailed two plane tickets to eight of the world’s most famous ski marathons with an invitation to send their race director and a skier to participate in the 1978 Birkie. Directors and skiers from all eight events accepted the offer and arrived to participate in the fifth annual American Birkebeiner, where Wise presented them with his idea. The Worldloppet League was born.

“Citizen skiers attempting to ski all the Worldloppet races will be issued with a special passport book, which certifies their completion of each race. A gold medallion will be issued to skiers completing all Worldloppet races, numbered from one, with the lowest number carrying prestige in future years...” The announcement of the Worldloppet Master achievement launched the race to be the first to complete all nine events. Due to two events overlapping on the same date –the Finlandia and American Birkebeiner–it would be impossible for anyone to earn the Worldloppet Master in a single season. Hayward local Carol Duffy would claim the coveted Worldloppet Master medallion number one at the 1980 American Birkebeiner, during the second season of Worldloppet racing. Duffy had completed eight Worldloppet events the previous year, saving her home turf for last. She was the first of 315 Worldloppet passport holders to ski every race.

The following winter a 10th Worldloppet event, France’s Transjurassienne, was added to the league. For this reason, completing 10 events now earns a skier the status of Worldloppet Master. But the growth of the league did not stop at 10. Cross country skiing was booming in Japan, thanks in part to the success of the 1972 Sapporo Winter Olympics.

2023 SLUMBERLAND AMERICAN BIRKEBEINER RACE RECAP

“But for today we’ll enjoy the moment.”

Ben Popp, ABSF Executive Director

The 50th Anniversary Slumberland American Birkebeiner week of festivities is slated for February 21-25, 2024. Registration for the 2024 Slumberland American Birkebeiner, Kortelopet, Prince Haakon, and Open Track events is open at www.birkie.com

2023/24 Calendar of Events

Norris celebrates a commanding lead as he approaches the finish.

Birkie Week 2023 kicked off in Hayward, Wis. with nearly perfect conditions during the Open Track events on Wednesday, followed by a snowstorm during the night that brought over six inches of snow to the area. Despite concern over weather, 20 countries, 49 states, and the District of Columbia were represented during Birkie Week 2023.

Skiers took to the course on Saturday morning with a fresh dusting of snow on the trail. Temperatures started in the single digits and peaked in the low to mid-twenties by midday. After the Spirit of 35 skiers took to the course, elite skiers in the skate and classic techniques led the charge down the American Birkebeiner Trail for the 49th time.

The women’s skate race featured several charges at different points on the course, making for a competitive race and exciting finish. Alayna Sonnesyn, skiing for Stratton Mountain School’s T2 Elite Team, managed to secure both sprint bonuses, the first three kilometers into the race at the end of the power lines, and the second at the Highway OO trailhead 21 kilometers from the start.

Sonnesyn didn’t let up there. During the final kilometers of the race she joined a charge alongside Jessica Yeaton, of Steamboat Springs, Colo., toward the finish. The two faced off in a sprint off Lake Hayward, over the International Bridge, and down Main Street to the excitement of the crowd. Sonnesyn edged out Yeaton to claim her fourth career American Birkebeiner Championship. Caitlin Gregg, of Minneapolis, Minn., the only woman with more American Birkebeiner wins than Sonnesyn, secured third place at the age of 42, finishing just over a minute off Yeaton’s time.

In the men’s skate race David Norris from Steamboat Springs, Colo., took the lead early in the race and never let up. Norris finished alone on Main Street to the sound of the crowds cheering and bells of every shape and size ringing.

Sonnesyn gains on Yeaton in a sprint to the finish.

A second pack of skiers, consisting of the 2022 American Birkebeiner champion Gerard Agnellet, of France, and Canadian Francis Izquierdo-Bernier, finished two and a half minutes behind Norris in a closely contested race for second. Agnellet edged his opponent by three seconds to claim silver. At the press conference following the race, Norris said he didn’t want the race to end in a sprint, like it did against Agnellet in 2022, which was why he pushed the pace early on in the race.

Agnellet had an unfortunate setback at the start of this year’s race. His skis went missing, and he made the decision to ski on a pair of loaner skis that were offered to him. He told reporters during the press conference that he decided at one point on the trail that he was racing for second, as he had a hard time shifting his focus from the fact that he wasn’t competing on his equipment. Despite the circumstances, Agnellet expressed his enjoyment of the event and assured those in attendance that he would be back for more.

In the 53-kilometer classic race, Team Birkie racer Julie Ensrud, of Minneapolis, Minn., finished with a commanding lead of four minutes over Delaney FitzPatrick, of Minocqua, Wis. Vivian Johnson of Robbinsdale, Minn., claimed the bronze.

The men’s classic championship was more closely contested with Scott Hill, of Canada, finishing just over a minute ahead of Ian Torchia, from Ann Arbor Mich. Evan Wetzel, of Madison, Wis., found himself in the bronze position for the second year in a row, just two minutes off the winning time.

While the elite athletes made for an exciting display of racing, thousands of skiers crossed the finish line on February 25, 2023–every one of whom are Birkebeiners.

The American Birkebeiner Ski Foundation (ABSF) would also like to recognize the commitment of the Hayward and Cable communities and the thousands of volunteers that make Birkie Week a reality. “There isn’t another event like this in the world,” said Ben Popp, ABSF Executive Director. “We can’t wait to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the American Birkebeiner, our planning starts on Monday but for today we’ll enjoy the moment.”

MAIN STREET A BETTER WORLD

~ Anne Straka

A better world. Where everyone is smiling. Where the worst weather makes the greatest memories. Where the American Birkebeiner finishes. A 200-meter strip of our planet, streets covered in snow, holding people from all the snow-covered countries in close proximity. This is the greatest place I have ever visited, and it only exists for a few short days each year. But you know what they say: All great things must come to an end. That is...until next year.

The day arrives early, and I'm forced to leave the calming allure of the family's minivan, sleep still in my eyes, to test my skis. Delicate flakes of snow float down landing silently on a shawl of white stretching across the untouched corduroy trails, thinly tracing every branch like a dress with icy lace. I click into my skis and waddle back and forth, letting my lungs adjust to the harsh winter air. Eventually, I choose a set that feels best. These skis and I have a big day ahead of us.

After a series of bus rides and waiting in lines, I arrive at the start area, consisting of a white tent and many, many porta-potties. We make it work. My friends and I, who are also crazy enough to ski 29 kilometers on this fine, zero-degree morning, wait in the tent trying to apply glitter to our frozen cheeks and picking the best hat to match our bibs. We try to delay going out into the elements, but time eventually runs out. With a sparkle highlighting my cheeks and cotton candy-colored gear to match my pink and blue Korte bib, I brave the cold. Before I know it, I am at the start line, chatting with the other girls in my wave about how much fun it will be. But will it?

Straka is all smiles waiting for the start of the 2023 Kortelopet.

The barrier in front of me rises and a funny noise signaling the start of the race goes off. The quiet trails erupt with the sound of skis gliding across cold, squeaky snow with poles thrashing noisily. I start the race calm and collected, set on feeling my best.

I move up through packs of skiers and get to work around 15k with a group of amazingly supportive competitors. With about 7k to go, I take the lead, just in time to make it up the longest hill on the course (you know the one). Feeling my legs burn, my arms providing little help at this point, I just keep moving. I must make it to the finish line. To my favorite place on earth. That is motivation enough for me.

Gliding across the frozen lake, just a few kilometers out from the finish, it takes my whole heart and soul to stay upright. I focus solely on following the snowmobile as it leads me into town. I make the final turn to be faced by a steep snow-covered bridge. A challenge, I'm sure, but I know the International Bridge is the one-way entrance to the place I have been waiting for the entire year. I climb with sloppy form in anticipation of what comes next.

At the precise transition from climbing to descending, I feel my body fall into the downhill as the whole world pours out with cheers and cowbells. The snow-covered street is my whole world, for now. I reach a state of overwhelming joy. My brain is fogged and my legs are numb, but my heart is full. I am all heart now. For the 52 seconds that I ski down Main Street, I have it all to myself –my own little world-where possibilities are endless and the end of the road leads to trash can soup and a pile of welcoming faces.

Anne Straka is a Wisconsin skier fortunate enough to ski for the Peak Nordic Club. She was put on skis before she could walk and loves the outdoors in all its beauty, rain or shine, and is looking forward to plenty more years of skiing from Cable to Main Street.

Straka glides toward a first-place finish at the 2023 Kortelopet skate race.

KORTE KING

A 37-YEAR REIGN COMES TO AN END

~ Cindy Marti

It started as many Birkie stories do; an unsuspecting individual got sucked into the vortex collectively known as "Birkie Fever" by a well-intentioned friend. In this case, the friend was Steve Krzyzanowski, and the unsuspecting individual became a king.

With all of one American Birkebeiner under his belt, Krzyzanowski convinced his old college buddy John Stein to join him in Hayward for the American Birkebeiner. Stein didn't quite take the bait, opting to ski the Kortelopet due to his limited race experience. His decision was confirmed on Saturday as he witnessed exhausted friends cross the finish line, putting into motion a 37-year tradition and his eventual place among Birkie royalty.

John never set out to be the Korte King, but as the years and the fun added up, Birkie Week became a must. Countless times, John has been asked "You ever gonna do a Birkie?" Without hesitation, he would reply something to the effect of "No damned way, too much of a head game, too brutal. I'm here to have fun, or it would cut way too much into beer time." Priorities.

When both races were on the same day, John was happy to be warm, dry, and "well hydrated" for hours by the time his long-race friends made their way down Main Street to accept a hand-up in front of Angler's. To John, it has never mattered whether someone was skiing their first or their 30th race, classic or skate, finished out front or dead last. Everyone had his respect.

As the years went by, skiing the Korte became a reason for John to continually push himself. It fed more than just his body; it fed his head, heart, and soul. After surpassing the previous Kortelopet record holder, Charlie Weydt with 25 Kortelopets during his reign, John Stein officially became known as the "Korte King" in 2011.

As every skier knows, it isn't all romance. Race day conditions alone present their challenges. During one particularly rough stretch, John reflected, "Every year I wonder why I come to this God-forsaken place." It was 2014, and it was a hard one. In the months leading up to the Korte, John's beloved wife Barb died of breast cancer and just weeks later he underwent surgery to repair a ruptured hamstring.

Despite his profound grief, John worked hard to finish rehab ahead of schedule so he could participate in the Korte. John has donned a pink bandana around his neck each February since to honor his wife.
John beat the odds again in 2018 when he raced just four months after back surgery. Technically he didn't "race"-if his doctor asks-he "skied". Coincidentally, his friend and veteran Birkie racer "Beattle" was recovering from surgery as well, so they teamed up. What started as an "at least we are out here" kind of day, turned into what they both would describe as one of the most rewarding and beautiful ski experiences of their lives. The quiet camaraderie shared between them and one other participant-Mother Nature herself-was unforgettable.

In 2022 John turned 70 (although you would never know it looking at him) and needed another back surgery. Unfortunately, it would mark the end of his skiing career. John went into surgery knowing it, came out of surgery accepting it, and as hard as it was, handled it all with grace.

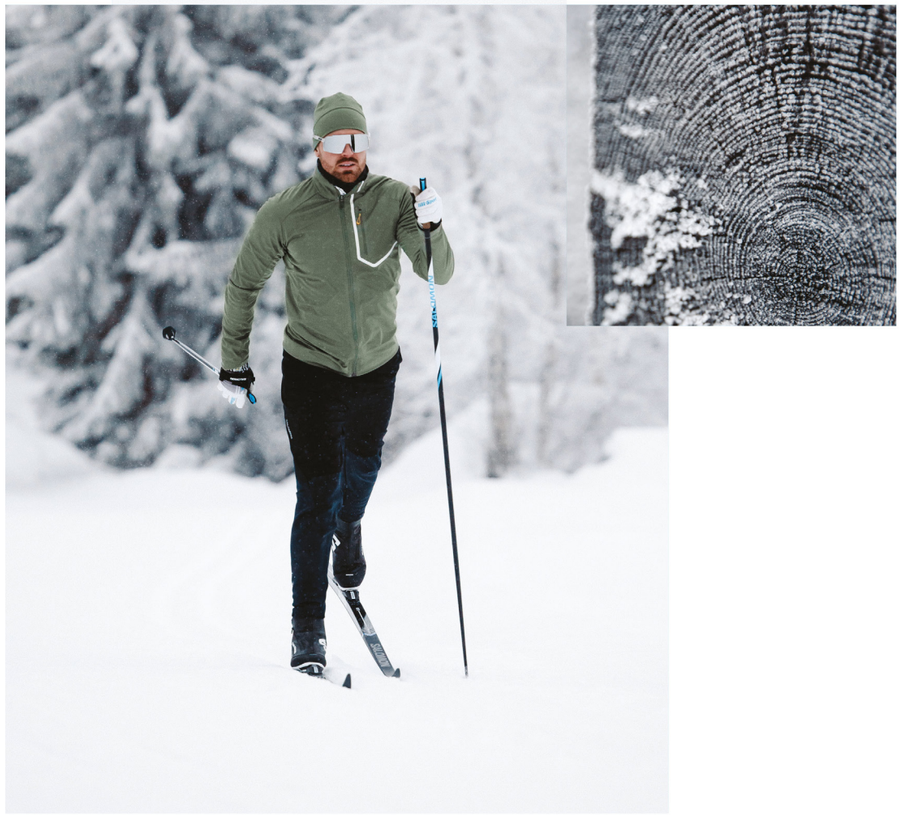

To quote Stein's dad, John Stein Sr., "You can lose a lot of things, but never lose your enthusiasm." While nothing will replace the swoosh of his skis on the snow, John continues to find joy in the beat of his boots on the ground, the whirl of his wheels on the road, and the pull of his paddle in the water.

Stein and "Beattle" celebrate finishing the 2018 Kortelopet. Stein with his signature pink bandana.

BIRKIE FEVER LIVES ON

A PROFESSIONAL RUNNER RETURNS TO SKI ROOTS

~ Garrett Heath

Despite spending the vast majority of the past two decades in the West Coast sun, hours away from the nearest snow, I've never quite lost that Birkie Fever. Each February, I'd furiously tune in to track friends and family racing through the woods of northern Wisconsin, looking forward to the day when I'd get to strap on a pair of skis again and zip up that old high school spandex onesie that still sat in the bottom of my bedroom drawer.

You see, since high school all I've been doing is running, running, and more running. Don't get me wrong, I've loved it and wouldn't change a thing. Running afforded me many opportunities in college that I otherwise never would have had, and thanks to the support of some great brands since, primarily Brooks Running who has sponsored me for the past nine years, I've been able to chase my dreams for longer than I ever could have imagined.

I've traveled the globe to toe start lines against some of the world's fastest athletes in Monaco, Edinburgh, Doha, and beyond. I'm addicted to competition, but more than that, I'm addicted to testing the limits of the human body. That can mean something different for each of us, but the high that comes from knowing you've pushed harder than ever before, or found a gear you didn't know existed, is universal.

While I've been able to push myself to that degree in running, I missed the opportunity to do that with skiing.

Skiing and the Birkie have been traditions in our family for as long as I can remember. I grew up in Winona, a small town in southeastern Minnesota, chasing my dad (known to many in the ski community as 'Birkie Bob') around the ski trails and ringing a cowbell for him at the Birkie every year. Many of my earliest memories are from skiing up Main Street in Hayward during the Barnebirkie with my eyes firmly set on the cookies that awaited at the finish line.

By 13 I entered the Kortelopet for the first time. I remember carbo-loading at pasta feeds, countless hours of debate over which wax to use (only to feel regret with the choice the following morning), and the tenderness with which everyone would handle the $100 piece of ceraF wax (pre-fluoro bans). I recall hearing the post-race stories of broken poles and bonks, and the heroic efforts to get to the finish line that ensued. All of which had me hooked on the race before I could participate. Once in the race, I quickly learned how not fun a bonk could be and how easily a pole could snap.

Throughout high school, I managed to work my way up the field and thanks to many great teammates and coaches in Winona, I eventually won the Kortelopet my junior year (2003). Because I changed my focus to running after that, I was never able to compete in the American Birkebeiner itself. Unlike high school, where skiing could still be my main form of activity every winter, college and professional running are singularly focused on running, just running. Oftentimes that meant road racing and cross country in the fall, indoor track in the winter, US outdoor track in the spring, and the European track racing circuit in the summer. Throw in a couple of three-to-five week training camps at altitude, and you've got an idea of what a track runner's year looks like. It's an all-in lifestyle focused around training hard and also recovering hard-countless hours of naps, physio therapy, and Netflix that only Rotten Tomato reviewers could appreciate. Outside the occasional holiday outing with the family, there wasn't much time for skiing.

Finally, when I switched over to trail racing after the 2021 Olympic Trials in Eugene, OR and changed my focus to longer races, the opportunity presented itself. Because trail races typically involved longer distances than anything I would've done on the track (800m - 10k), building a massive aerobic base becomes a key part of training. Even with technological changes in running shoes, too many miles takes a toll on the body. Many of the best trail athletes in the world turn to alternative sports like cycling or skiing for growing their aerobic base in the off season. This was my chance to get back into skiing, hopefully in a way that would build on my running.

Along with a few friends from the Pacific Northwest, I finally signed up for the 2022 Birkie. As a bonus, the USATF Trail Half Marathon Championships happened to be on the Birkie Trail the following fall (a great event and one I plan to be back for in 2023!).

On race day everything lived up to the hype, from the foot sprints through the starting corrals to the frozen fingers and full ab cramps immediately after crossing the finish line. Despite at least a handful of errors and miscalculations, I was able to finish 57th and qualify for the Elite Wave in 2023. No matter how many running accolades I've received, I found myself feeling particularly proud of this one. True to Birkie tradition, I left feeling more motivated than ever, and certain that there was more in the tank with only a few minor tweaks.

Like any Progressive Insurance commercial will warn you of, 2023 was the year I realized I was really becoming my parents-for most of the months of December thru February, I found myself talking far too much about ski training, what the proper wax might be that day, or even Birkie race

Volunteer

Volunteers are the lifeblood of the American Birkebeiner Ski Foundation. If you've participated in one of our events, you understand the critical role these individuals play in creating a welcoming and enjoyable race-day experience. Our volunteers will tell you that they love getting to support athletes and experience events in a whole new way. We encourage you to branch out and consider volunteering for one of the many year-round opportunities available. Visit www.birkie.com/volunteer to learn more.

VOLUNTEERS OF THE YEAR: KAREN & JIM PLISKA

Jim and Karen Pliska have been race chiefs at the Mandli Boedecker Aid Station for over a decade. Their passion for the event stemmed from Jim's history of skiing the Kortelopet. The couple was recruited by a friend to volunteer at Boedecker one year and the rest is history. When Tom Thorton stepped down as race chief at this aid station, the Pliskas stepped up to ensure a smooth transition.

Outside of Birkie Week, they are committed, year-round volunteers. It is common to see them at the Birkie Trail Run, Birkie Tour, Gitchi Gami Games, and the Hayward Dash. In honor of their commitment and dedication to volunteerism, the Pliskas received two FRAMED bicycles.

SHELLIE MILFORD "SPIRIT OF THE BIRKIE" AWARD RECIPIENT: JOAN CERVENKA

In 1984, Joan Cervenka was approached by the executive director of the American Birkebeiner, Dick Simono, to call participants and inform them they had "Won a Stay at the Telemark Lodge". Thus began her 35-year, and counting, commitment to supporting the Birkie. Along the way she also completed an impressive 21 American Birkebeiners and 7 Kortelopets.

Joan played an instrumental role in planning for the 40th Anniversary of the American Birkebeiner in 2013 as the head of the party planning committee. She coordinated Pow-Wow Dancers, the parade of nations, and celebrations throughout the week.

Today you can find Joan leading the charge to share information with spectators and participants during Birkie Week and beyond. She is always helpful when it comes to training the next round of volunteer recruits and ensures shifts are filled throughout Birkie Week to avoid mass confusion throughout downtown and the expo. You can also hear Joan's Midwest banter and congratulatory sentiments from the announcer's booth as you cross the finish line on Birkie Saturday.

Joan embodies the essence of Birkie Spirit. She is always willing to help lend a hand in time of need. Thank you, Joan, for all you have done and continue to do for the Birkie!

The Shellie Milford "Spirit of the Birkie" Award was established in 2015 to honor individuals that embody the spirit of the Birkie. The award was named after long-time event director Shellie Milford. Read more about Shellie (and Joan) in the "The Women Who Shaped The Birkie" feature on pages 14-15.

NIMRODS: END OF AN ERA

"Champions come and go, but one thing is a constant: the Nimrods." -Ernie St. Germaine

And constant they were, as the Nimrods took home title after title, appearing in every Birkie Giant Ski Finals since 2014, and hoisting the winners' cups all but twice in that span.

Birkie Week 2024 will hit differently due to the surprise retirement of Rick Peters, the Nimrod Giant Ski team founder and captain, followed immediately by the announcement that the entire team will join him in retirement. The surprise development, as reported exclusively by the Northern Nerd, shocked the Giant Ski community and has thrown the Vegas Giant Ski betting lines into disarray.

"When we called the press conference, we didn't know what the reaction would be," says Max Wolter, the team's coach and publicist. "We know how much people have invested in the Nimrods, so we didn't want to create a panic. Rick was insistent that the time was right, so we went ahead with it. We tried to break the news gently to avoid overloading people's emotions. The last thing we wanted was to have Giant Ski groupies chaining themselves to the railing outside of Angler's during the press event."

Still, the retirement news spread like wildfire, with at least 34 views on the Nimrod Giant Ski YouTube channel (@Nimrodski) alone. According to Wolter, the Nimrods know they are reaching the audience in other ways. "The Northern Nerd's social media coverage of Giant Ski has been huge, with over four million views. We believe that in their own way, these viewers are processing the retirement news, and the fact that there will be new faces in the winner's circle in 2024."

But why now, at the height of their success and influence not only in Giant Ski but across the entire skiing community? Giant Ski legend Rick Peters has some answers:

"I've been skiing on giant skis exclusively since 2014, which is what you need to do to build up the muscle memory needed for a championship run. I've only been skiing with five other guys this entire time, as Max believes in East German immersion coaching techniques. For me, I am not getting any younger and want to have the ability to re-teach my body and mind, perhaps even going as far as to try skate skiing, or maybe skiing with a female companion, although not at the same time unless we somehow each had our own skis."

"That's not to say I won't miss it. You hear the crowd at the start, the announcer, the commentary, but then it all gets quiet. And if it works out, six individuals ski as one. Poppa Bear hit it perfectly in that song."

Twenty five feet of timber
Six men strong and limber
There's shushing to do...
There's shushing to do...
-Ballad of Big Ski, Poppa Bear Norton

Other Nimrods offered their thoughts on the end of the Nimrod era of Giant Ski dominance.

Paul Cigan felt that the time was right to further monetize the Nimrod brand. "I'm aware that this team has reached the peak of influence," he said, "Following the release of the feature documentary (Giant Expectations) last year and the outpouring of public support for the Nimrods and Giant Ski in general, I think there is an opportunity for investment into ideas that bring us closer to the fan. The content I put out is designed for that: www.giantskifeet.com is a perfect example of a way to reach a targeted, but wildly passionate, audience. With our retirement, demand will skyrocket."

Aaron Koshatka was defiant. "When we fell during the 2022 finals, people wrote off the Nimrods. I heard it. The talk on the streets, the snide comments in the tiny ski shops, the looks from the squirrels. All the haters. But we shut them down, didn't we? Damn right, we did. Classic mic drop. Boom. Thank you, next!"

The newest member Dalton Mouritsen was reflective. "I moved from Minnesota last year after being selected first overall by the Nimrods in the 2022 Giant Ski draft. Now, I guess we are retiring. One year. It seems surreal. Was it something I said? I thought skiers liked Vikings."

Other Nimrod members were harder to reach, perhaps trying to process a life not skiing under the bright lights of downtown Hayward in a winner take all run for glory on Thursday evening of Birkie Week.

SKIING FOR A CURE

RAISING FUNDS & AWARENESS FOR PARKINSON'S RESEARCH

~ Jess Cavallaro, Team Fox Officer, The Michael J. Fox Foundation

After Bill Brown was diagnosed with Parkinson's disease (PD) in 2015, the same disease his father lived with, he learned about Team Fox and decided to turn his goal of skiing all 20 Worldloppet races into a fundraiser for Parkinson's research.

Two years later at the American Birkebeiner, Brown met Mark Gherty. On behalf of his siblings diagnosed with PD, Gherty had been fundraising for Team Fox since 2007 but skiing long before that. "I bought my first pair of cross-country skis in February 1973, the same month and year the first American Birkebeiner was held," he says. "I was not aware of the Birkie until a few years later and signed up for my first one in February 1983. I was drawn to the race because of the competition between friends and the challenge to complete a ski marathon. I have participated with the same friends for the past 41 years." After meeting in 2017, Brown and Gherty set out to create the ultimate Team Fox fundraising group: Ski for Parkinson's.

Over the last six years, Ski for Parkinson's has grown from a two-person team to a five-person team and has raised over $665,000 for PD research. During this time, Brown completed his final Worldloppet race in 2019, skiing 17 of the races after his diagnosis. "I've been surprised to learn that fundraising has helped me talk more openly about living with Parkinson's. As those with PD may agree, there are times when it can be easy to dwell on the challenges that we have with this disease," he says. "I've found that since I started fundraising for Team Fox, I am instead excited about all the positive developments in PD research and in what we can do to help find a cure. It's been great to have a part to play in advancing this progress!"

Since the beginning of Brown and Gherty's relationship, they have dreamt about the possibility of partnering with the American Birkebeiner to raise funds and awareness for PD research. Thanks to their efforts, Team Fox has become the Official Charity Partner of the race's 50th anniversary in 2024, a first for both organizations. The pair are proud to have made their dream into a reality.. "Fundraising for Ski for Parkinson's is an easy way to combine your love of cross-country skiing and the Northwoods with helping the worldwide and local PD community," says Brown.

"There are hills that seem insurmountable, but it is through internal determination and the support of friends, family, and others that one is able to succeed," says Gherty. "I look at the struggle of both my sister and brother as they specifically dealt with PD. I tell every one of my donors that I carry their names in my pack as I crown the International Bridge before I ski to the finish line. Every one of my donors are with me in the effort."

You too can be part of this passionate community of change-makers who are bringing us closer to a cure. Visit https://give.michaeljfox.org/birkiexteamfox to join Ski for Parkinson's at the 50th Annual Slumberland American Birkebeiner (February 21-24, 2024) and michaeljfox.org to learn more about Team Fox. Every penny donated to Ski for Parkinson's goes straight to The Michael J. Fox Foundation's high-impact research programs to help speed up a cure for Parkinson's disease.

Gherty poses for a photo with his Team Fox banner in 2017 when the event was canceled due to weather. He participated in the Ski Fest celebration instead.

ABOUT TEAM FOX

An estimated six million people worldwide are living with Parkinson's disease–the fasting growing neurological disorder and second-most common after Alzheimer's disease. Currently, there is no known cure or treatment to slow or stop the progression of Parkinson's. Together, we can change this.

Team Fox is the grassroots community fundraising program of The Michael J. Fox Foundation for Parkinson's Research (MJFF). Since its inception, MJFF has operated with one single urgent goal: putting ourselves out of business by finding better treatments and a cure for PD through an aggressively funded research agenda.

Team Fox members worldwide have been turning their passions and interests into opportunities to raise funds and awareness for Parkinson's research since 2006. "Have you ever noticed that optimism, energy, and generosity are contagious? There's something about watching someone you know take on a cause that makes you want to get involved too. That's the big idea behind Team Fox," says Michael J. Fox.

After so many false starts over the past decade, the reinvention of the once-swanky Telemark is finally happening. The Birkebeiner has acquired the land, demolished the old Telemark Lodge, and created a vision for the new Mt. Telemark Village. Its new role: to be a world-class hub for all kinds of outdoor adventure designed to reconnect us all to the natural world - and to foster real and lasting relationships with each other.

In the new Mt. Telemark Village, the biggest scene will be the scenery itself. With over 800 acres of wooded trails to meet the year-round needs of everyone, from casual hikers to world cup skiers. With full community resources like a welcoming center with a Great Hall. World-class snowmaking. A state-of-the-art rollerski trail. Coaching and learning areas. An ice skating pond. A biathlon range. Downhill and cross-country mountain bike trails to suit all types of riders. An observation tower. Bike and ski rentals. A restaurant and coffee shop.

But the new Mt. Telemark Village will be much greater than the sum of all these individual parts. It will be a legacy for generations to come. A place that offers the kind of real adventure that can never be simulated by apps, widgets, or algorithms. A place that inspires us to get out of our climate-controlled, wi-fi bubbles and into the wilderness where we learn and grow. A place to bike, ski, run, hike, and explore. A sanctuary to marvel, ponder, and recharge. A place where we learn to set goals and achieve them through hard work. A place that gives us Birkie Fever 365 days a year. A place that builds strong community and teaches us to be good stewards of the environment. A place to get lost and to find yourself at the same time. A place that can literally change the trajectory of someone's life for the better. A place that empowers us to not only be better athletes - but better human beings. A place that brings all types of people together and teaches us that the things we have in common are far greater than the things that separate us.

LET'S LEAVE SOMETHING FOR THE NEXT GENERATION BESIDES ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE.

It really does take a village to raise a village. As a Birch Scroll reader, you're an important part of our truly special community, and we need your help. This is a $10 Million campaign, and we can't do it without you. (As of early-July, when this publication went to press, we were over half-way there!) As we approach the fiftieth anniversary of the Birkie, we need our entire village to help us get to the finish line, so that we can leave a legacy of love for the outdoors for the generations to come. TREK TRAILS POWERED BY OTM

~ Joe Vadeboncoeur, American Birkebeiner Ski Foundation

Phase 2 construction has begun on the upper Midwest's most exciting mountain bike trail center project. Located at Mt. Telemark Village in Cable, Wis., the trail center is envisioned as a modern destination serving up cross country and enduro-style riding for all, from novice to advanced riders. The project's vision has gained national attention and received support from two prominent foundations to help fund and develop it.

The Trek Trail Foundation is a non-profit arm of Trek Bicycle that invests in trail development around the country. The vision of the Trek Trail Foundation is to protect land and to make that land available for recreation for all.

One Track Mind Foundation (OTM) is a non-profit based in Minneapolis, Minn. that is dedicated to advancing the sport of mountain biking by working with local partners to fund, design, create, and maintain trails for communities, landowners, and outdoor enthusiasts.

When it's finished, the project will have 17 miles of trails accessible from Mt. Telemark Village, the American Birkebeiner start area, and Chequamegon Area Mountain Bike Association (CAMBA) trails. From the mountaintop, riders can experience smooth trails, technical descents, modern jumps, and challenging climbs. The Trek Trails Powered by OTM combined with the CAMBA system will create a top riding destination in the upper Midwest.

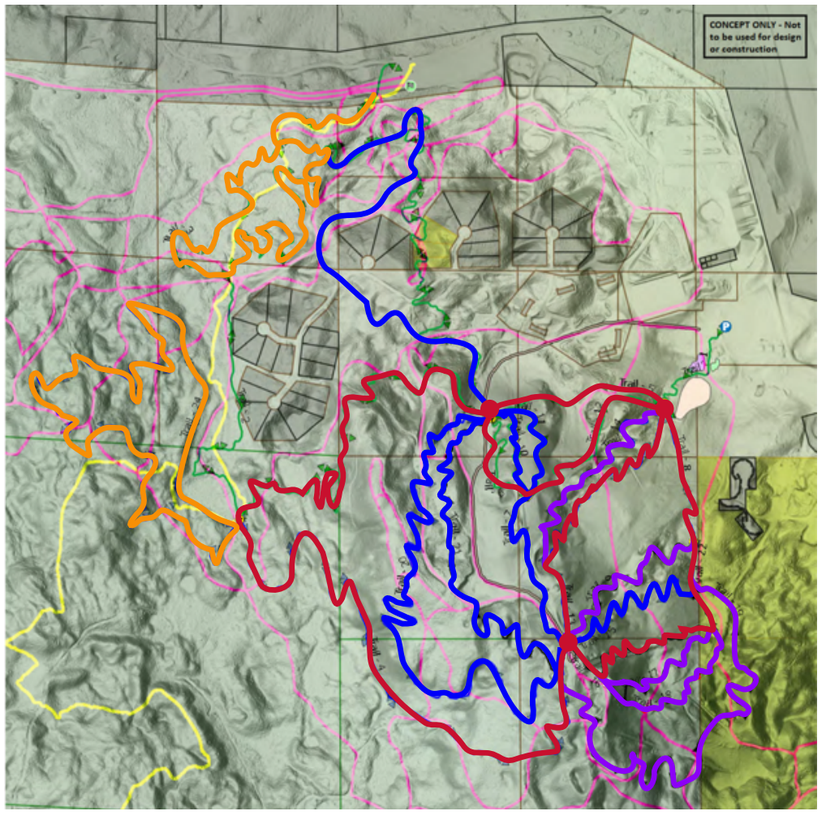

Phase 1 trails were constructed by Traction Trailworx and completed in the fall of 2022. Two trails–Evenflow (a blue flow trail) and Once (a green gateway loop)–briefly opened in October before the snowfall. Although the Birkie staff were eager to kick off Phase 1 with a grand celebration and give everyone a glimpse of the future of the MTB trail center, it turned out that getting a small number of riders on the trail followed immediately by snowfall was an ideal process for the betterment of the trails. New trails are delicate when they are first finished, and the blanket of snow allowed them to season and be ready for the spring opening. All the Phase 1 trails were used for the Epic Bike Fest this spring, and all are open to the public. The Birkie is really proud of how well the trails held up through the winter and wants to thank riders for being patient and not riding while they were drying out this spring.

Phase 2 trail construction began June 2023 by Rock Solid Trail Contracting. If you know trail building, you have heard of Rock Solid. They are the notable trail builders in Copper Harbor, Mich. and have constructed trails across the country.

Approximately six miles of trail will be built during Phase 2, which will connect Evenflow to Mt. Telemark and the first three descending trails on the frontside of the mountain. The trails are not named yet, but you can expect a green flow trail with fun berms and beginner-level obstacles, a blue level jump trail, and the area's first black level technical trail. The first climbing route on the front side of Mt. Telemark will also be constructed as part of Phase 2.

> "The trail center is envisioned as a modern destination serving up cross country and enduro-style riding for all, from novice to advanced riders."

In the spirit of collaboration, CAMBA is building a new section of trail from Dirt Candy to connect into the Trek Trails Powered by OTM. As of the fall of 2023, bike enthusiasts will be able to ride the Ojibwe loop, down Dirt Candy, up to the top of Mt. Telemark, down one or more of the new descending trails, over to Once and Evenflow, and then back to Ojibwe (unofficially known as Joe's loop).

Phases 3 and 4 will introduce even more trails to Mt. Telemark, including a challenging climb and more descending trails on the front side, enduro-style trails on the back side, and additional trails connecting to the American Birkebeiner start area.

Planning and fundraising are underway for Phase 5, which will feature a hard surface pump track, strider track for the littlest kids, skills area, dual slalom, and dirt jump park all located next to the Base Camp outdoor center at Mt. Telemark Village. The full trail system, along with Base Camp amenities such as a coffee shop, tap room, and bike shops will make Mt. Telemark Village and the Trek Trails Powered by OTM the ultimate Midwest mountain bike destination.

Join us in shaping the future of mountain biking at Mt. Telemark Village. Your involvement and contribution will not only help build extraordinary trails but also create a legacy for generations of riders to come. Get involved today, and let's make mountain biking dreams a reality!

Phase 1: Orange

- Four miles of cross country trails that connect the American Birkebeiner start, Birkie ski trails, and CAMBA trail system

Phase 2: Red

- Approximately six miles of trails that include the first climbing routes to the top of Mt. Telemark and the first downhill and Enduro trails in the area.

Phase 3: Blue

- Additional downhill and Enduro trails on the front side of Mt. Telemark and the creation of "hubs" where the trails meet up and diverge. This phase will also include a pump/strider bike track for kids.

Phase 4: Purple

- Made up of the last downhill and Enduro trails and the first true double black trail in Wisconsin, as well as a jump zone/slopestyle area.

EMPOWERING YOUTH & BUILDING TRAILS: OTM IS MAKING AN IMPACT

~ Angela Cavalier, OTM

One Track Mind Foundation (OTM) is a nonprofit 501(c)(3) organization dedicated to advancing the sport of mountain biking, working with local partners to fund, design, create, and maintain trails for communities, landowners, and you, the outdoor enthusiast. A critical component of OTM's mission is to provide opportunities for young people to develop life skills and an appreciation for the sport through paid, hands-on involvement in trail building and maintenance.

Teamwork at its finest.

Tracy Paradise, president and CEO of OTM, founded the organization in 2017 with the help of John Danhakl, a longtime friend and fellow mountain bike enthusiast. In six short years OTM has provided unique outdoor work experiences for over one thousand young people, funding millions of dollars of projects, creating and improving hundreds of miles of trails throughout the Midwest and Western U.S. Money alone doesn't get these projects done-so much more goes into it. OTM seeks out partners and conservation groups who share their values to create recreational resources a community can treasure. They also aim to increase appreciation for the outdoors and the value of honest work in today's youth. The impact has been incredible:

- Engaged over 800 youths through Conservation Corps
- Nearly 500 miles of singletrack maintained by youth
- Driving economic impact in 10 communities
- Nearly 100 miles of new trails built across the country
- Over 700 hours of technical skills training for youth

Creating and maintaining singletrack trails is a collaborative effort that requires the involvement of land managers, builders, city planners, and passionate supporters, as well as volunteers and nonprofits like OTM, which takes an active role in all aspects of projects they support. They recognize that just as mountain bikes have evolved, mountain bikers have evolved. As more and more talented athletes have adopted the sport at younger and younger ages, trail design has had to evolve to stay relevant. OTM is at the forefront of that evolution.

OTM is also committed to maintaining inclusivity in the sport of mountain biking. Their projects offer mountain biking terrain suitable for every level of enthusiast, from the absolute novice to professional-caliber cross-country racers and freeriders. Visit any OTM-supported project and you'll see riders from ages 4 to 84, dressed in everything from jeans and baggies to armor and spandex, but above all, always wearing a smile.

"At OTM, we believe in working on projects that support a community. It creates a sense of accomplishment and purpose that can fundamentally alter the course of one's life.'" said OTM founder Paradise. When appropriate, opportunities are provided for youth to participate in OTM projects in a manner that fosters respect for nature, an understanding of the effort and the care that stewardship of natural resources requires, and a real appreciation for and understanding of the benefits of challenging physical labor.

Through a variety of collaborations in each region, OTM works with local volunteers to call on young people who are provided opportunities for paid summer employment. They believe that few things touch the soul of a young person more profoundly than getting together with friends at the end of a hard day working collectively with picks, crowbars, shovels, saws, mattocks, and rakes on the trails they all expect to be riding together soon. These experiences open new opportunities for career development, learning, and personal growth associated with healthy lifestyle choices. But most importantly, they open the heart.

Since 2017, OTM has collaborated with over a dozen partner organizations across five states and will be launching two multi-year projects in Wisconsin soon. More about the mission of OTM and their projects can be found online at Onetrackmind.org.

ZIIGWAN BIMIBAATOO
"RUN IN THE SPRING"

During Spring 2023 the Akii Giikinoo'amaading Charter School at Lac Courte Oreilles and the Birkie planned and conducted the 2023 Ziigwan Bimibaatoo run/walk series at the Honor theEarth Pow Wow Circle site. The six-week event began in late April and commenced with a run on the recently restored Zhooshoomemiikaanis Trail (Ojibwe translation: sliding on thesnow on a little trail). Over 400 youth and adults participated in the series. On the final night Akii School students and staff hosted an awards ceremony and spaghetti dinner te celebrate the successful collaboration. The event was also supported financially by the LCO Tribal Governing Board. Members of the public are invited to attend the 2nd annual Bonajonce Memorial Middle School Cross Country Meet and Open Race on Saturday, October 8, 2023 at the Honor the Earth PowWow Circle site to experience the new trail for themselves.

"Uncle Ernie" corrals runners at the start area of the inaugural Ziigwan Bimibaatoo run/walk series, which started at the Lac Courte Oreilles Honor the Earth Pow Wow Circle site.

INDIGENOUS GAMES ATHLETE

Brooke Zen Dorman-Defoe's dream of competing in the 2023 North American Indigenous Games has come true! Dorman-Defoe is an accomplished athlete and honor student who attends Hayward High School. She represented Team Wisconsin at the games and competed in discus, 100-meter, and 200-meter events.

Through the Birkie One initiative, the community successfully raised over $2,600 to support Defoe and her family's travel to Nova Scotia, Canada so she could compete in July.

Miigwech (thank you) for the invaluable support of the Birkie community to make this life-changing experience a reality for Brooke!

PROJECT INSPIRE DIVERSITY COLLABORATION

The Birkie is delighted to report a successful collaboration with Joseph Gray, founder of Project Inspire Diversity and world-renowned trail runner. In August, Gray hosted a trail running camp for youth in Colorado Springs, Col. To ensure that deserving youth could attend, a fundraising initiative was launched. We are proud to announce that, thanks to the generosity of the Birkie community, nearly $1000 was raised to support Gray's event.

Funds were used to provide scholarships for camp registration and to cover travel expenses for participants. Additionally, the proceeds were utilized to pay usage fees for trail areas and the pavilion that served as the central hub for the team and campers throughout the week. Gray's sponsor, HOKA, also contributed by providing shoes for the young participants.

The collaboration between Project Inspire Diversity and Birkie One exemplifies the power of collective efforts in creating transformative opportunities for youth from diverse backgrounds. Through this partnership, we were able to inspire the next generation of trail runners and instill in them the values of inclusivity, strength, and community.

We extend our heartfelt gratitude to all who supported the fundraising campaign and contributed to the success of the trail running camp. Your generosity made it possible to provide an enriching experience for the youth, fostering their personal growth, confidence, and love for trail running.

Moving forward, the Birkie remains dedicated to the Birkie One initiative and will continue to collaborate with individuals and organizations that are furthering the mission to reduce barriers and increase participation in skiing, running, and biking for underserved communities near and far.

globally that know the Birkie and help each other out."

Cervenka knows a thing or two about helping people out. One year, she was volunteering in the Birkie office answering phones during race week when a couple from Barcelona arrived. They'd just taken a bus from the Minneapolis airport. "They had no car. They had no idea what they were getting into," Cervenka says. "So I just took them home. We call it 'picking up strays' at my house. That wasn't the last time we housed skiers during Birkie week."

For Milford, the Birkie was both a labor of love and an education. "I love problem solving and one of the things that the Birkie taught me is I was able to take scenarios and situations and figure out how to solve them," Milford says. "The Birkie helped me discover who I am and what I could do in my life–and that was very important to me."

When she retired in 2015 after 28 years, the Birkie established an award in her honor that is given out to a volunteer, race chief, community member, vendor, or skier whose selfless, thoughtful, or heroic act contributes to a successful race and a positive experience for participants in the Birkie. In 2023, the Shellie Milford Award went to Joan Cervenka.

The Sapporo Ski Marathon was added to the League in 1985 followed by Australia's Kangaroo Hoppet in 1991. The opening of Eastern Europe in the 1990s saw the induction of events in Estonia, Czechia, Poland, and Russia. At its peak, the Worldloppet reached 20 events: complete all of them and you earned the title of Global Skier. As international politics continue to impact sports, Russia's event has been suspended due to the war in Ukraine. Currently, 19 events make up the Worldloppet series, reinforcing the importance of events that encourage international travel and cultural exchange.

Today, over 22,000 Worldloppet Passports have been issued and more than 5,000 Worldloppet Master titles have been earned. The dream of American Birkebeiner founder Tony Wise lives on. Each Passport and Master title is not just an athletic achievement; it represents countless friendships and stories of skiing around the world.

In retirement, the Nimrods know their legacy. They know the work it took to get there, and the difficulties that any other team will have to recreate the magic that they put together through five championship runs.

"Look at the other teams," says Wolter. "Sure, there are teams who are really competitive in the costume category, which is a big part of the event, and the Musky Fest Queen and her court have a solid following, but where are the winners? We broke some bindings in 2018 and the French Toast Mafia won, but have they been back? The pressure of being a champion is immense, the pressure of trying to repeat as champions breaks people. I hope they are all alright."

Two Nimrods have been there through it all, finishing 2023 as the bookends of what some are calling the best giant ski team ever. With Jimmy Kujala skiing in #1, and the Captain, Rick Peters, driving the team from the #6 position, the Nimrods were a force to be reckoned with in the finals, breaking the spirit of the 2022 champions who epically collapsed midway through the race. Back at the start, the Nimrods hoisted their Captain on their shoulders, and their winning cups to the stars, celebrating destiny.

Kujala was the most philosophical when discussing the constancy of the Nimrods as a global movement. Unfortunately, we ran out of print space, but it was amazing.

might be that day, or even Birkie race strategy itself. My brother, Elliott, also had "the fever" and signed up for his first Birkie. Knowing that he was in the race was certainly a secondary motivation to keep the gas on in training to ensure my younger brother didn't roll me up out there on the course.

When race day finally arrived, I found myself on the start line behind a guy named David Norris. When the gun fired, he quickly beat me off the line, and ultimately everyone in the whole field all the way to Hayward. I was able to get out well but found myself unable to find a rhythm and pressing what felt like an all-out effort the first 5k. The top group started to break away, and I barely latched on to the second pack. Prior to the race I had decided to save on weight and not carry a water bottle with me, as I planned to drink a lot of electrolytes beforehand (thanks SOS Hydration!) and to stay topped up at the aid stations on course.

Very early in the race though I noticed that pretty much every other elite skier around me (who had a better idea as to what they were doing) was carrying a water bottle with them. Uh oh. After spilling the entire cup of water on myself at the first two aid stations and completely freezing at least three of my fingers, I was really regretting not having my own bottle.

I was able to continue to hang on the second pack through "OO," although there were plenty of doubts creeping into my mind as to whether it was a smart move with at least a few muscles already showing some signs of fatigue and cramping, including even my forearms?? Not sure what that means for my technique or lack of muscle in essential places, but I'm happily accepting advice for next year. At the OO aid station I was finally able to take in some hydration, which helped in washing down all the GU I had taken over the first half of the race.

For most of the second half of the race, all I could focus on was conserving energy. Just before 40k though our pack had shrunk down to about eight guys, and I started to get a second wind. I began contemplating trying to put in a move somewhere in the last couple steep hills before the lake. As I was formulating that plan, we came to the bridge over Hwy 77. Before realizing it, I found myself accidentally skiing up onto the back of the skis of the guy in front of me as we transitioned into the uphill on the bridge. As I tried to slow, I could feel my quad twinge into a cramp and to prevent it lost my balance and flipped backwards. As I struggled on the ground at the entrance to the bridge trying to get my skis untangled without causing another cramp, I felt the rest of the group go by me looking down with a cross between pity and amusement at what I must have looked like helplessly squirming there.

After that, there were no moves to be made off the front, but I did manage to pull my way back to the pack in the hills and hang on to a couple others who were looking stronger than me across the final few kms of the lake. I put in one final move over the bridge (because how could you not with that atmosphere on Main Street) and gave it everything I had up the home stretch to hold off any chasers. I was totally spent as I crossed the line but was happy to find out that I had managed to sneak into the top 20 (19th place overall). The highlight though was when I saw my brother come across the line not long after as the second finisher in Wave 1, and 66th overall. Although next year I'll certainly have my work cut out to hold him off, I couldn't have been more excited to be back out racing together. Over some brats and beers with friends and family afterwards, we were already breaking down the race and strategizing around what we could do better. The 2024 fever is hotter than ever!

THE NEW SPEEDMAX SYSTEM

Born on the World Cup to meet the demands and needs of the world's best, the Speedmax system features new designs and constructions that provide a lighter weight and improved power transmission.

Speedmax Boot - Proven one piece carbon chassis and cuff combined with new lacing and an improved inner boot fit for increased energy transfer.
Speedmax Ski - New Bidirectional Air Core and Helium Shield construction provide maximum performance at the incredible weight of only 950g.
World Cup Binding - An updated shape optimizes weight and strength while a redesigned Safe Lock lever allows for easier entry and exit.

Skis: Speedmax Helium Skate; Binding: Worldcup Skate IFP;
Boot: Speedmax Skate / WS
